BETTER THINGS FOR BETTER LIVING . . . THROUGH CHEMISTRY

FOREWORD

IN his "The Laws of the Navy," Ronald Arthur Hopwood wrote:

> "The strength of the ship is the Service, > and the strength of the Service, the ship."

So it has been and is with the Film Daily Year Book of Motion Pictures, of which this is the 34th annual edition.

From its inception, the motion picture industry's standard reference volume has been predicated upon service, and dedicated to service. And to paraphrase Hopwood, it is the service it provides which constitutes its strength, and similarly, the scope of the Year Book, ever expanding with the years, is the strength of its service.

The world-wide acceptance of the Year Book as the industry's truly encyclopedic work attests compellingly to its prestige and position, both earned by unstinted industry service.

As with its distinguished predecessors, the 1952 edition is marked by complete revision of editorial content, the strengthening of vital sections to keep pace with industry trends and developments of the past 12 months.

Of special note is the greater attention given to television in its specific relationship to the motion picture, and the fully revised roster of circuits and operating motion picture theaters.

The work of many contributors, collaborators and editorial assistants, to all who filled such roles, at home and overseas, again our deep thanks.

BRIGHT IDEA for BETTER BOX OFFICE!
MOVIE THEATRE
NOW SHOWING

● Outside the theatre, light merely helps to get your patrons in. Inside, however, light on your screen is literally the whole show. It alone must fulfill the expectancy of gripping scenes . . . startling close-ups . . . of color gloriously revealed in costume and setting—all the elements of PERFECT ILLUSION.

If yours is one of the large percentage of inadequately lighted indoor theatre screens, ask yourself: Are my lamps aligned and in proper trim? Electrical equipment in good working order? Screen reflectivity within the limits of recommended practice?

Remember, "NATIONAL" projector carbon lighting costs less—and means more—than any other exhibitor expense. Don't wait for the box office to remind you that something is wrong. "NATIONAL" Projector Carbon Distributors and our Lighting Specialists are always available to make specific recommendations for improving the light on your screen.

ASCAP

the music of America

Through the years, ASCAP has meant the Music of America. That is because ASCAP's repertory includes the finest music produced in the past half century.

From ASCAP's composers and authors come songs America wants to hear over and over again—smash hits from musical plays and motion pictures, popular and standard works.

With ASCAP's simple licensing system, music is now a part of everyday American life, heard in the home through radio, phonograph and television, or wherever the public goes—in automobiles and trains, in taverns and restaurants, or at the theatre.

ASCAP local offices are on the job to serve users of music from Maine to California

BMI

Television Sketch Book

AN INDISPENSABLE COLLECTION OF PRE-TESTED MUSICAL SKETCHES FOR THE PRODUCER, DIRECTOR AND ARTIST.

BMI's new "Television Sketch Book" contains hundreds of practical suggestions and ideas — mostly simple, some elaborate — for the presentation of songs in dramatic, comic and pictorial fashion.

Here are 44 standard songs of every variety, from ballads to waltzes, with accompanying scripts or sketches in complete form.

The sketches will give you a series of complete musical shows or can be used in the production of variety programs or for scene setting segments.

There are dozens of ways in which you can adapt the Sketch Book to advantage.

As an added service BMI has arranged to publish monthly "Sketchbook Supplements" which will include sketches for currently popular songs. The new supplement features 11 timely tunes for TV programming.

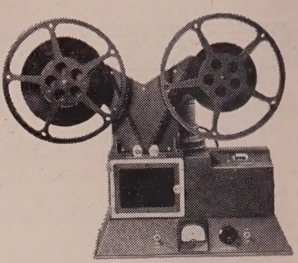
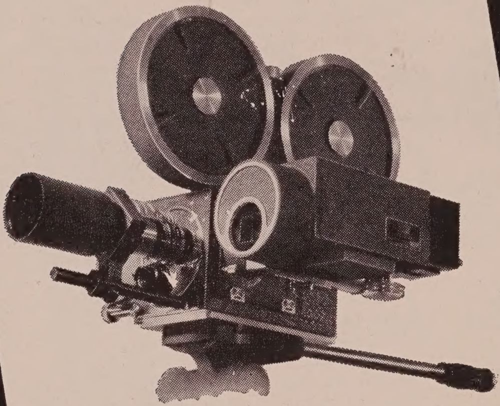
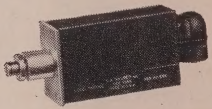
The 16 mm. sound-on-film portable Recording System combines the highest fidelity in 16 mm. recording practice with wide flexibility and simplicity of operation. The system is completely portable and is capable of recording either negative or direct positive variable area and variable density sound tracks.



The 16 mm. Film Phonograph unit provides the finest quality in high fidelity re-recording and playback. The unique optical system, giving an unusually narrow reproducing image with high light output, accomplishes a material reduction in photocell hiss—essential for quality reproduction.

THE MAURER 16 MM CAMERA





The Model F Prime Recording Optical System and Galvanometer is a light modulating unit for recording sound photographically upon standard film. This system requires no special servicing or spare parts (other than recording lamp). Detailed instructions for mounting in your recorder are included.

The 16 mm. Professional Camera is the result of J. A. Maurer research and development in the 16 mm. field. Designed specifically for professional use, it is equipped with precision high-power focusing and the finest view-finder made.

Standard equipment includes: 235° dissolving shutter, automatic fade control, view-finder, sunshade and filter holder, one 400 foot gear-driven film magazine, a 60-cycle 115-volt synchronous motor, one 8-frame handcrank, power cable and a lightweight carrying case.

JAMES STEWART

A GREAT DAY AHEAD

By ERIC A. JOHNSTON
President, Motion Picture Association of America

IT IS A STARTLING and significant fact that approximately 40 per cent of our companies' revenue comes from abroad.

Yet the foreign market for the American motion picture has hardly been tapped. Its great day is ahead of it.

If that sounds like a conflict of statements, it isn't. But where will this additional revenue come from?

A first look around may show little prospect for major revenue gains. For example, a few years ago, about two-thirds of our foreign income was from Western Europe. Today, that figure is a litle more than half. Does this mean the foreign market is shrinking? Far from it. More revenue is coming from other areas.

And vast potential markets are opening up—in Latin America, which is making economic strides forward—in the Near East, the Middle East, and the Far East, where millions are on the march toward better living standards.

And there I believe is the clue to the great new markets for our pictures abroad. As the enormous land areas of the world are developed and the people's living standards are raised to new levels, along with it will come new demands for our films.

Here are two examples of what I mean:

Sweden, with a population of about seven million, has about 2,500 motion picture theaters. But look at India, with only 2,000 theaters and a population of 362 million. How many motion picture theaters will India need when its 362 million people are steering somewhere near to the living standards enjoyed by seven million Swedes?

And look at Afghanistan—population of about 12 million—with only seven motion picture theaters. The Russians, who are doing everything to get Soviet propaganda into the East, have offered to supply films free to the theaters in Afghanistan. The Russians had a reason, of course. They had watched the people in Afghanistan line up in long queues to see American pictures.

But what did Afghanistan do? It brought in more American films. The answer is that the people wanted them. They wanted them so much, in fact, that the Government of Afghanistan has allocated funds to build three new theaters. Isn't that a significant sign for the future?

These vast new markets for our films are not going to spring up overnight. Or next year. But they are in the economic cards.

Let the Jovial Jeremiahs and Calamity Janes ponder these facts. Surely then they must agree that our industry's great day is indeed still ahead of it.

1951: A REVIEW

By CHESTER B. BAHN
Editor, THE FILM DAILY

I

¶ CORPORATE AND EXECUTIVE. It was in the corporate and executive spheres that the most important industry developments of 1951 came to pass. Here are the highlights.

Stock control of Universal Pictures passed to Decca Records, headed by Milton R. Rackmil, with the announcement on Nov. 4 that Decca had purchased 271,900 shares of common, roughly 20 per cent of the outstanding stock, and 32,500 warrants. The holdings largely were those of Leo Spitz, William Goetz and Nate J. Blumberg. With other October purchases, Decca's investment in Universal approximated $3,773,914. The entry of Decca into Universal generally was regarded as a forerunner of merger moves in 1952.

● MANAGEMENT CONTROL OF UNITED ARTISTS, for the second time in less than a year, was involved in another highly important deal negotiated by Arthur B. Krim, Robert S. Benjamin and Matthew Fox with Charles S. Chaplin and Mary Pickford, corporation co-owners. Disclosed on Feb. 7 with the signing of a memorandum of agreement in Hollywood, the deal startled the industry even more so than the 1950 one which moved Paul V. McNutt, Frank L. McNamee and Max Kravetz into operating control. The Krim-Benjamin-Fox agreement, spanning three years, provides for the acquisition of 50 per cent of the outstanding UA stock if the management operates the company in the black for any calendar year. That seemed assured in the first year as 1951 faded.

Within approximately two months after Krim had taken over as president, United Artists had signed William J. Heineman and Max E. Youngstein as vice-presidents in charge of domestic distribution and advertising-publicity-exploitation, respectively, and had purchased and effected a merger of Eagle Lion Classics. The ELC purchase price was $500,000 plus five per cent of the "Oliver Twist" gross.

● PLANS FOR A SECOND MAJOR MERGER of the year were disclosed jointly on May 23 by United Paramount Theaters and American Broadcasting Co. Here a new, exciting pattern for show business was to be discerned. At the year end, while the merger had been approved by the stockholders of both companies, the sanction of the FCC still was to come. Fanchon and Marco, through Partmar Corp. and other affiliates, sought to intervene in the merger hearings, was turned down, but on Dec. 27 filed a new request to that end with the FCC.

Meanwhile, the operating pattern had been designed, ABC set to become a division of the new American Broadcasting-Paramount Theaters, Inc. with major executive posts allocated thuswise:

Leonard Goldenson, president; Robert E. Kintner, president of the ABC division; Edward J. Noble, finance committee chairman; Robert H. O'Brien, executive vice-president, radio-television; Robert M. Weitman, vice-president, program and development in radio-TV.

When the merger is finalized ABC stockholders will receive approximately 50 per cent in common and 50 per cent in preferred stock of the new corporation in exchange for their ABC holdings. The capitalization of the new company was fixed at $17,160,940.

● CONTROL OF MONOGRAM and its Allied Artists subsidiary also shifted in 1951. On Aug. 12 came the announcement that as a result of the acquisition of additional stock by Harold Mirisch and J. Ralph Branton, company control rested with them and President Samuel "Steve" Broidy.

● IN MAY, CONTROL of a second major company was at stake in negotiations which, however, failed. Louis R. Lurie, San Francisco financier, sought to acquire the 24 per cent interest in Warner Brothers held by Harry M., Jack L. and Maj. Albert Warner. On May 10, it was announced by the principals that the deal was off.

● A NEW PRODUCTION-DISTRIBUTION company took shape during 1951. On June 26 announcement was made that indie distributors headed by Moe Kerman and Jack Dietz had formed Mutual Film Corp. Hal Chester joined them on the production side.

● OF THE EXECUTIVE CHANGES of the year, these held greatest industry interest. Louis B. Mayer elected to terminate his long association with Loew's. The formal announcement confirming persistent industry reports and rumors came on June 25 with Aug. 31 the termination date of Mayer's association. With Mayer's departure, direction of Metro production and studio operations was vested in an executive board with Dore Schary as chairman.

On Dec. 17, Loew's announced its purchase of Mayer's residual interests in M-G-M pictures and story properties under the provisions of his contract. Subsequently, the price paid Mayer was disclosed to be $2,750,000. Thanks to a new provision in the 1951 revenue bill, Mayer's tax "bite" on this sum was held to be a 25 per cent capital gains impost.

● ON DEC. 2 came the announcement that William F. Rodgers would relinquish at the year end his post of vice-president in charge of domestic distribution for Loew's, although remaining with the company as vice-president, advisor and consultant for a minimum two-year period from July 27 at a $1,100 per week salary. To succeed him, President Nicholas M. Schenck advanced Charles M. Reagan, associated with the company for two years.

On May 10, Andy W. Smith, Jr. resigned as Twentieth-Fox's vice-president and general sales manager, Al Lichtman assuming full control of Fox's distribution with Edward Aaron and Arthur Silverstone named Western and Eastern sales managers, respectively.

● THE MANAGEMENT OF RKO THEATERS headed by President Sol A. Schwartz, found itself late in the year the target of attack by a stockholders committee headed by David J. Greene, Wall Street operator. A proxy war reached its climax at the annual stockholders meeting, but several recesses were necessary to permit a close check of the ballots. The result was awaited at the year-end.

● A MAJOR COMPANY RUN-DOWN shows these newsworthy developments:

On Jan. 18, Loew's board voted the common stock options to Dore Schary, Arthur M. Loew, Benjamin Thau, Joseph R. Vogal, Charles E. Moskowitz and Louis K. Sidney. The options were approved by the stockholders on March 15. On Sept. 5, George A. Brownell was elected to Loew's board succeeding the late David Warfield.

On Sept. 12, William Randolph Hearst, Jr. was named president of Hearst Metrotone News, jointly owned by Loew's, to succeed his late father. On Oct. 4, announcement was made that Loew's had extended the contract of Frank Walker, head of the M-G-M record division.

At Paramount, Jerome Pickman was named on Feb. 12 as acting national director of advertising, publicity and exploitation following the resignation of Max E. Youngstein; subsequently, Pickman assumed the title permanently. As April ended, Sid Blumenstock, Paramount advertising manager, was named Pickman's assistant. On Dec. 27, election of Pickman as a director and vice-president of Paramount Film Distributing Corp. was announced.

At the Paramount studio on Feb. 25, Y. Frank Freeman named Don Hartman supervisor of production to assume duties formerly handled by Samuel J. Briskin, whose ill health had forced his resignation on Jan. 23.

● ON FEB. 25 announcement was made that Robert J. Rubin, formerly SIMPP general counsel, was joining Paramount as assistant to Barney Balabin. On April 24, Richard Mealand's appointment to succeed Frank Farley as managing director of Paramount British Productions was disclosed. On June 12 Arthur Israel, Jr. was named Paramount's assistant secretary. On Oct. 15 George Shupert resigned as vice-president of Paramount Television Prods., shortly becoming vice-president of Peerless Television Prods., formed by Edward Small and Sol Lesser.

● IRVING BRISKIN on Feb. 20 signed a new seven-year deal as Columbia Studio manager and as February ended Will Baltin resigned as secretary-treasurer of TBA to join Screen Gems, Columbia's TV subsidiary, as executive.

On March 18, Stanley Kramer signed a $25 million production deal with Columbia calling for the delivery of 30 films during the next five years. On Oct. 21, Arnold M. Picker resigned as vice-president of Columbia Pictures Int'l to become United Artists' vice-president in charge of the foreign department. As October ended Max Thorpe, Sig Kusiel and Lacey Kastner were elected vice-presidents of Columbia Pictures Int'l and Bernard Zeeman was named treasurer. On Nov. 26, Arthur A. Schmidt resigned as Columbia's advertising, publicity and exploitation director and on Dec. 11 his successor was designated as Howard Le Sieur.

C. J. "Pat" Scollard resigned as United Artists executive vice-president on Feb. 22. Francis M. Winikus returned to UA as advertising manager on Feb. 26. Subsequently in mid-August, Winikus was promoted to assistant national director of advertising, publicity and exploitation. A. E. Bollengier was elected treasurer of the company on March 18. Bernard Kranze, Eagle Lion Classics former sales chief, was named executive assistant to William J. Heineman at United Artists on April 15.

Charles Coburn

• OTHER NEWSWORTHY CORPORATE AND EXECUTIVE DEVELOPMENTS of 1951 in chronological order must include these:

Dr. Isador Lubin resigned on Jan. 8 as president of Confidential Reports to take a Government post. On Jan. 8 announcement was made that Kroger Babb had acquired J. S. Young, elevated to the board chairmanship.

Charles Simonelli on May 1 was appointed Universal's manager of Eastern advertising and publicity department. On May 8 the resignation of Kenneth N. Hargreaves as director and secretary of Twentieth-Fox, Ltd. was disclosed, Hargreaves taking a post with J. Arthur Rank. On May 14, Irving Sochin was named assistant to Charles J. Feldman, Universal's domestic sales manager.

• SOL A. SCHWARTZ on May 22 signed a three-year employment contract as the president of RKO Theaters Corp. at a $78,000 annual salary plus expenses. On May 27, Jack H. Levin resigned as executive vice-president and general manager of Confidential Reports with Harold Groves succeeding him. Subsequently, with the liquidation of CR, both Levin and Groves established their own service companies. On May 28, it was announced that Jerry Fairbanks Prods. and Official Films were merging. However, on Aug. 21 it was announced that they would split into two individual companies for television productions.

As May ended Harry Mayer was named to head Warners New York story and Talent departments with Jacob Wilk, long in charge, transferred to the studio. On June 12, William C. MacMillen, Jr. was named board chairman of Souvaine Selective Pictures with Charles Amory appointed vice-president and general sales manager. On June 24, it was announced that Sid Rogell was joining Official Films as vice-president and general manager.

• GUS S. EYSSELL on June 28 was elected to the presidency of Rockefeller Center. The March of Time on July 6 announced it would bring production of its theater series to a close in the Fall to give due attention to TV. However, in mid-December came announcement MOT would re-issue the series nationally.

David Golding as advertising and publicity director. Golding earlier had resigned as 20th-Fox publicity manager; his successor was Stirling Silliphant. On Sept. 10, Milton Silver became ad director for Souvaine Selective Pictures and on the 16th it was announced that Norman L. Carter would be succeeded as president of Paramount Gulf Theaters on Jan. 1 by Gaston J. Dureau, Jr.

Jonas Rosenfield resigned on Oct. 14 as 20th-Fox's advertising manager and subsequently established his own agency. On Oct. 17 appointment of H. E. Newcomb to succeed O. R. McMahon as comptroller of RKO Theaters was announced. Resignation of Mervin C. Pollak as special assistant to the U. S. Attorney General to join Pathescope Company of America as vice-president was announced on Oct. 25.

● IT WAS DISCLOSED on Nov. 26 that David T. Katz would succeed A. J. Balaban as executive director of the Roxy Theater on Jan. 1. On the 28th, Jack Schaifer was named vice-president and general sales manage of both Jack Broder Prods. and Realart Pictures. On the 28th, Milton J. Salzburg was elected president and Frank Soule board chairman of Pictorial Films, acquired from Pathe Industries.

On Dec. 21, Twentieth Century-Fox restored voluntary salary cuts which 130 top executives, East and West, had taken for the last six months' of the year. Reason: Business had taken a turn for the better. However, the plan continues for two years.

● IN CORPORATE FINANCING, the year's major developments came in June when Paramount stockholders approved the retirement of 342,694 shares of common stock held in the treasury, in July when 20th-Fox redeemed its two outstanding preferred stock issues, and in August when Warners retired 1,015,915 shares of outstanding stock, using a $15,000,000 appropriation to that end.

II

¶ TRADE LITIGATION. The malignancy of the industry's own carcinoma was the more virulent in 1951, as the record of new antitrust actions filed by theater operators against distributors, et al, starkly attests.

In the 12 months which ended Dec. 31, there were 55 such suits brought in the Continental United States. The especific damages demanded in 50 actions totalled $94,829,101, nearly two and a half times the total of $38,543,571 involved in such suits docketed in 1950.

In five of the 1951 suits, there was either no request for monetary damages or the balm was left to be determined after trial.

To be added to the 55 suits originating in the Continental U. S. was a 56th. Late in the year, J. S. Bruno, operating the El Encanto Theater in San Juan, P. R., filed a conspiracy action demanding $270,000 damages plus costs from Puerto Rican distributors and Teodulo Llamas, circuit operator.

● THE PEAK DAMAGE demand, $14,000,000 was contained in an antitrust suit filed in Federal Court in New York on April 6. Philip Loew, operator of the Plymouth, Worcester, Mass., and Consolidated Theaters, Inc., owner, sued to recover $4,029,000 and $10,295,532, respectively, from 14 defendants, distributors and theater operators, charging a conspiracy to maintain a nation-wide system of fixed admission prices.

The suit demanding the second greatest financial balm was quietly filed in New York late in the year, and was first reported by THE FILM DAILY on Nov. 5. Charging conspiracy for control first-run exhibition in Providence, R. I., the Metropolitan Theater there sued for $8,450,582, its complaint naming 10 distributors, theater corporations and a number of individuals.

However, on Sept. 24 in Los Angeles, Hawaii Theaters, Galston and Sutton Theaters, Inc., Wolvering Investment Co. and Galston-Sutton Co. brought three suits involving the Hawaii, Marcal and Beverly Music Hall Theaters which demanded damages in the amount of $9,133,944 from major distributors and affiliated circuits.

● IN ADDITION to Worcester and Los Angeles, cities and towns in which exhibitors instituted antitrust actions during the year embraced: Aurora, Ill., Springfield, Ill., Wichita, Kans., Philadelphia, Hollwood, Oklahoma City, Beaumont, Calif., Chicago, Dinuba, Calif., Cincinnati, Long Beach, Roseland, Ill., Milwaukee, Monohand, Tex., Milford, Mass., Media, Pa.,

Thanks, Mr. Exhibitor, for keeping us tops in our field!

We'll continue to roll'em out in '52-53... a new, fine Autry action picture every two months... for Columbia release.

● AS OF OCT. 1, the U. S. Supreme Court was advised by distributor counsel in papers in the Milwaukee Towne Theater case that 144 suits in which more than $330,000,000 in trebled damages were involved then were pending. THE FILM DAILY'S statistical department records show that from Oct. 1 to the year end an additional 13 suits asking trebled damages of $23,116,082 had been filed.

Of the more than 150 suits, comparatively few would reach trial. Yet all would require prolific expenditures of time, money and brainpower. Well, indeed, might the industry try another approach, specifically arbitration.

● THE ISSUES in two antitrust actions were argued. In early September, a trial jury in Federal Court at Vicksburg, Miss., found for Joseph Applebaum and Bert Simms, former operators of a theater at Greenville, Miss., awarding $450,000 damages, granting as well attorney fees and costs. The eight majors and Paramount Gulf Theaters were the principal defendants. The trial had started on Jan. 31.

A second antitrust action to be tried later in the year was that brought by the G & P Amusement Co. of Cleveland operating the neighborhood Moreland Theatre against four majors and the Co-operative Theaters of Ohio, and its client, the Regent. The court, reserving decision, called for briefs. The suit was the first one on record in which a buying agency is named defendant together with an exhibitor and a group of distributors.

● REPORTED AS SETTLED during the year were suits in which the following were plaintiffs: Charles and Herman Nelson, Lawndale Theater, Chicago; Aurora Theater Operating Co., Aurora, Ill.; Menasha Theater Realty Co., Menasha, Wis.; Rex Theater, Bakersfield, Calif.; Key Theater, Doylestown, Pa.; O. S. Sullivan, owner of the Civic and Crawford, Wichita; the 64 Drive-in Theater, Muskogee, Okla.; and S & S Amusement Co., Cincinnati.

In Salt Lake City the Camark Theater antitrust was dismissed with prejudice.

As July ended, three Cincinnati suburban theaters filed a highly important injunctive suit in Chicago Federal Court seeking to end the 20-year-old clearance system there.

● ON AUG. 17, Federal Judge Leon R. Yankwich in Los Angeles ruled against Fanchon & Marco in the circuit's $300,000 damage action against six major distributors and National Theaters, et al, and upheld the right of distributors to establish "reasonable" clearance. Judge Yankwich saw the duty of the court to be the vindication of the antitrust laws, not the securing of a "better bargain" for a dissatisfied exhibitor. On Dec. 6, F & M lost a motion for a new trial.

● DISMISSAL in Federal Court, Buffalo, of the $5,000,000 antitrust suit filed in 1946 by Dipson Theaters, Inc., was upheld on appeal by the Circuit Court of Appeals here on July 26, and the case moved on to the U. S. Supreme Court, marked there by an unusual Government amicus curiae intervention on Dec. 6. It was unfinished business for 1952.

The Government's cause of concern: Issues akin to those in the Dipson case were found in seven other pending cases. Thus, the Government asked the High Court to accept the Dipson appeal and uphold its antitrust suit against the Shea circuit and six distributors, and "provide authoritative guidance" to the lower courts.

● TO THE SUPREME COURT in 1951 went other highly important industry litigation, including: Howard Hughes' fight to prevent the forced sale of his holdings in trust in RKO Theaters; plaintiff and defendant dissents to the provisions and terms of the court's findings in the celebrated Towne Theater, Milwaukee, case; suit brought by Natalie Kalmus against Dr. Herbert Kalmus and Technicolor; action instituted by Sutphen Estates to intervene in the Warner Bros. consent decree proceedings, and the Conference of Studio Union's suit against the IATSE and Coast studio. Sutphen Estates on Nov. 29 asked the High Court to reconsider its Nov. 5 decision affirming the Statutory Court's decision denying the right to intervene.

● IN CHRONOLOGICAL ORDER, these other developments in trade litigation were newsworthy:

On Feb. 15, Paramount Pictures filed a $400,000 suit against PRC, ELC and Pathe Industries, charging failure to properly exploit "Open Secret" and "Close Up."

Charles Starrett

On March 29, Max Kravetz, former secretary of UA, sought $733,000 damages as a counterclaim in answer to Mary Pickford's suit to recover monies loaned.

● ON MAY 9, the Appellate Division, Third Department, upheld the New York Regents' ban of "The Miracle," controversial Italian picture, and subsequently, the Court of Appeals acted to the same end. Joseph Burstyn, the picture's distributor, turned his hopes to the U. S. Supreme Court.

A second censorship action found its way into the courts later in the year when Commercial Pictures, distributor of a French import, "La Ronde," contested the refusal of the Board of Regents to issue a license for the picture's exhibition in New York State.

On May 14, Park-in Theaters, Inc., appealed its suit for royalties under a drive-in patent licensing agreement against Paramount Richards et al to the U. S. Supreme Court. The Supreme Court, which previously had ruled the Hollingshead patent to be invalid, on June 4, quickly turned down the appeal.

● ON JUNE 14, it was disclosed that Howard Hughes had settled his $7,500,000 antitrust action filed in 1946 against the MPAA. Hughes' "The Outlaw" received a PCA seal.

In early July, Walt Disney Productions and RKO sued to restrain Souvaine Selective Pictures from releasing Lou Bunin's "Alice in Wonderland." A quick decision went to Bunin, and the Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed Dec. 6.

● ON JULY 10, announcement was made that the Keller-Dorian suits against Eastman Kodak and Technicolor for $300,000,000 had been settled. George J. Schaefer assumed the presidency of Keller-Dorian. A new corporation, Lenticolor, Ltd., headed by Hermann Place, was formed to license Eastman Kodak and others to use the Keller-Dorian and Kislyn patents. Earlier in the month, the French Keller-Dorian Film Co. lost its suit brought in Paris against Eastman Kodak for alleged suppression of the Keller-Dorian color process in the U. S.

Settlement of the percentage fraud action instituted by Paramount Pictures against Brandt Theaters in which the distributor had asked $563,365 was disclosed on July 12. Total of new fraud actions brought by distributors during 1951 was 98; during the year, 103 such actions were settled.

● ON JULY 17, the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago reduced the trebled damages granted the Towne Theater, Milwaukee, from $1,295,827 to $941,574 and slashed the counsel fees granted from $250,000 to $75,000, the Court tartly noting that the "fabulous" $250,000 was "shocking to our sense of reason and justice. . . . The amount would equal the total compensation received for a period of 15 years by the distinguished judge (John Barnes) who made the allowance." Subsequently, in late November, the theater sought a Supreme Court review. Defendant's similarly filed Dec. 2.

On Dec. 20, the distributor defendants in the Towne case charged in a brief filed with the U. S. Supreme Court that the cross-licensing ban sought by the Milwaukee theaters was "in effect and intent a decree of divestiture."

On July 26 in Philadelphia a Federal jurist ruled that National Screen Service monopolized the field of standard accessories by exclusive agreements with major distributors. Subsequently, on Oct. 18, the court ordered the suit against NSS to trial on Jan. 28 next.

● ON AUG. 20, Universal, contesting a move by the Bank of America to sell the films of six indie producers for which it had provided financing, asked the court to find the company not liable for payment of balance due on loans.

On Aug. 28, THE FILM DAILY reported settlement of the antitrust action brought in Cleveland by Jack L. Gertz against NSS.

As September ebbed, the Hughes Tool Corp. won a $144,611 verdict against UA in "The Outlaw" distribution litigation.

● ON NOV. 1 the Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia affirmed the decision, favorable to the plaintiff, in the Milgram Drive-In antitrust suit. A rehearing petition was denied.

On Nov. 11, Bud Abbott and Lou Costello filed a $5,000,000 conspiracy suit in New York against Universal and Realart. Universal's reply on Dec. 27 was a general denial.

On Dec. 12, the Conference of Studio Unions asked the U. S. Supreme Court to review a decision of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals which upheld a trial court's order dismissing the Conference's injunctive $44,000,000 damage suit against the studios and IATSE.

As the year neared its close, the Amo Theater, Chicago, filed an injunctive antitrust action in that city against NSS; no monetary damages were sought.

¶ TELEVISION. The shadow cast by television over the motion picture scene obviously lengthened in 1951, but there was a difference. Whereas a year earlier there was breast-beating, coupled with frequent cries of anguish, particularly on the exhibition side, in 1951 there was a determined buckling-down in production, distribution and exhibition to the industry job of adoption and adaption of the new competitor.

This is not to say that all is well video-wise for the industry. There remain roadblocks, landmines, even booby-traps in a manner of speaking and ere they are surmounted and eliminated there certainly will be casualties. Growing producer-distributor interest in television was manifested in several ways. Several companies established new television subsidiaries. Others widened the scope of subsidiaries to permit emphasis or further emphasis upon television. Several of the moves quickly led to legal complications.

● TWENTIETH-FOX'S INTEREST in the Swiss Eidophor theater television system grew as the company obtained rights to the CBS color television process for use in Eidophor. This deal was announced on July 19, and subsequently on the 26th it was disclosed that General Electric would manufacture color cameras for Eidophor with higher than home video definition. Plans for a first New York demonstration of the Eidophor system during the year failed in materialization but an early installation in the New York Roxy Theater and demonstration was in prospect as the year waned.

In early December, an enthusiastic Charles P. Skouras announced with gusto that National Theaters was prepared to install the Eidophor color TV system in no less than 73 of its houses in California and Arizona. Which had a reminiscent sound, for at the start of 1951, RCA President Frank Folsom had disclosed that NT's FWC division was planning 71 theater TV installations during the year. None materialized as Skouras' attention turned from RCA to Eidophor.

That theater TV in color would prove highly competitive was certain. On Oct. 16, RCA inaugurated public demonstrations of its color system, employing a 9 by 12-foot screen, at the Colonial Theater. Paramount, meanwhile, with its 50 per cent interest in Chromatic Television Laboratories, also was alert to the theater TV color potentialities.

● THREE SYSTEMS OF SUBSCRIPTION TELEVISION engaged industry attention during the year. Zenith demonstrated its Phonevision for 90 days in the Chicago area for the benefit of 300 families but at the year end the results of the experiment were under scrutiny by the University of Chicago. As a result Zenith's application for a commercial license was still to be filed with the FCC.

On Dec. 16 Skiatron Electronics & Television Corp. completed its phase one test of Subscriber-Vision over the facilities of WOR-TV in New York City. Its application to the FCC for permission to conduct phase two, comparable to the Phonevision test in Chicago, was awaiting completion of the necessary programming at the year end. In early December, President Arthur Levey of Skiatron disclosed the incorporation of Skiatron Broadcasting Co. to build and operate TV stations for Subscriber-Vision use.

Skiatron's request for current and/or recent films for the planned 90-day public test was before company executives at the year-end.

On Oct. 10, it was announced that the FCC had authorized a 90-day field test on the Coast for Telemeter, a subscription system in which Paramount Pictures holds a 50 per cent interest. Paramount's acquisition of a half-interest in International Telemeter Corp. for $300,000 was revealed as May ended. Paul Raibourn was elected Telemeter board chairman; David Loew, the corporation president; Carl Leserman, vice-president, and Eugene Zukor of Paramount its secretary-treasurer. The corporation had been organized by Loew and Leserman.

● THE ALL-IMPORTANT FCC HEARINGS on the industry application for exclusive theater television channels were subject to several postponements during the course of the year. Finally, on Sept. 26, the Commission set Feb. 25, 1952 as starting date for the vital hearings. There was every assurance that the industry would present a united front at that time. Twentieth-Fox, which caused some industry concern by filing on Sept. 6 a petition with the FCC to "enlarge the issues" in the theater TV hearings to include a proposed amendment to the rules that would permit theater TV to share industrial radio frequencies with others, on Dec. 26 reversed its position and went along with the general industry request for exclusive frequencies. The SMPTE, however, bowed out.

While major producers were cautious in their approaches to subscription television, the SIMPP, in late June, acted boldly, urging the FCC by resolution to license speedily such systems. On Sept. 11, agreement was reached to seek six 10-megacycle channels for exclusive theater TV.

● AS THE YEAR CLOSED about 40 theaters were equipped with large-screen television equipment, with an additional 20 houses in the process of being equipped. A major problem facing theaters contemplating TV installations involved loop connections—the relay between theaters and telephone company buildings with connections to AT&T's national TV relay facilities. While AT&T was apparently in a position to put in the required relays in many situations, some theaters were reluctant to stand the monthly charges suggested by the telephone company, in New York City, for example, averaging over $850 per theater, per month, with a two-year contract asked in some instances. Theaters additionally were faced with charges for programming and their shares of line costs from the point of origin.

Despite these problems, it was apparent that some 60 theaters would be TV-equipped by shortly after year-end, and at least 10 more installations were scheduled to be started in January, 1952.

● THERE WERE TWO FORWARD MOVES to provide theaters with exclusive theater video attractions during the year. In New York, Nathan L. Halpern in mid-May moved to incorporate Theater Network Television, Inc., and ended his association with TOA and Fabian Theaters as television consultant. Chartered by the State of New York on June 8, TNT gave first attention to sports. And on the West Coast, Theater Television Authority was launched, its home office in Sacramento and its managing director, Kenneth E. Wright. But it was still to engage its programming service at the year end.

● SIGNIFICANT TELEVISION DEVELOPMENTS of the year in chronological order include:

On Jan. 4 in the most widespread use of theater television to that time, 10 theaters throughout the country presented the State of the Union message by President Truman as a special television feature. In mid-January the National Collegiate Athletic Association television committee made the first moves to restrict home telecast of college football. Subsequently in April the NCAA television committee proposed the maximum use of theater television, and subscriber systems. In late May the committee agreed upon the availability of seven games on each college schedule for theater TV. In late January, the right of television to cover Congressional hearings was challenged for the first time before the Kefauver crime committee.

● IN EARLY FEBRUARY, the first of several suits designed to determine the rights of performers in motion pictures used on television was filed in New York. The plaintiff, Buster Crabbe, demanded $500,000 damages from six New York television stations, Pathe Industries and the Ford Dealers Association. On Feb. 20, the Fabian Palace Theater in Albany recorded an historic first with the initial exclusive theater telecast of a college basketball game. On the 26th the U. S. Supreme Court denied writ of certiorari in the Pennsylvania TV film censorship case, thereby permitting to stand an Appellate Court decision that video as a facet of broadcasting was under the jurisdiction of the FCC and thus not subject to state regulation.

● IN EARLY MARCH RCA reduced the price of its PT-100 instantaneous theater television system from $25,000 to $15,000. On the following day it was disclosed that Screen Gems, Columbia's subsidiary, would inaugurate the production of television entertainment films. On March 19, General Precision Laboratories Videofilm theater television system had its world premiere in Pittsburgh's Fulton Theater. In March the FCC made it plain that it would consider the antitrust records of applicants in granting TV or radio licenses and the Commission was also concerned with the fact that motion picture companies impose restrictions as to the appearance of talent, films or properties on television. Subsequently, on Aug. 9, the FCC ordered an investigation of Paramount, United Paramount Theaters, DuMont and B & K. Still later on Sept. 3 the FCC tied the ABC-UPT merger to its Paramount inquiry.

1951: A REVIEW

● AS APRIL CAME IN, it was disclosed that Fanchon & Marco was forming a subsidiary to produce films for television and later in the month the Crosley Broadcasting Corp. indicated it would enter the TV film production field. In late April it was indicated that the Independent Motion Picture Producers Association would offer 35 per cent of all television revenue to be divided by the SAG, the SDG and the SWG.

● ON MAY 7, Robert L. Lippert disclosed that Lippert Prods. would establish a new subsidiary to distribute films for television. The growth of television production on the Coast was pointed up with the publication of a story in THE FILM DAILY on May 18 to the effect that 50 per cent of the facilities of Motion Picture Center Studios had been shifted to TV. On May 28 the U. S. Supreme Court upheld the FCC's OK of CBS color.

● AS JUNE ENTERED, it was announced that Chromatic Television Laboratories, 50 per cent owned by Paramount on a $500,000 investment had developed a new TV receiver capable of automatically tuning to either black and white or color transmission. Early in the month Republic and Monogram met the terms of the AFM for assuring the union five per cent of sales of television rights to their pictures. On June 4, Henry Ginsberg was named general consultant for NBC and the same day it was disclosed that a group of top flight video manufacturers planned a composite color TV system.

On June 5 the International Boxing Club signed with Theater Network Television for exclusive theater telecasting of a series of major outdoor fights during the Summer. There was a television sidelight to the consent decree signed by 20th-Fox and the Department of Justice, counsel for the distributor placing on the record that fact that the decree does not prevent the defendant from asking for production—exhibition contracts in the field of television.

● ON JUNE 12 it was disclosed in Hollywood that Republic had established a subsidiary —Hollywood Television Service—for the distribution of its older pictures in the television field. On June 13 Roy Rogers' decision to produce for television was disclosed. Rogers again made headlines on the 19th when his counsel questioned the use of his name by television sponsors. He obviously sought to block the sale by Republic of Rogers' old Westerns. A few days later, Rogers took his complaint to the courts. An injunction followed in due course. The decision in the Rogers suit came down on Oct. 18 and was a victory for the cowboy star.

It was immediately followed by a second action with Gene Autry the plaintiff, but the potentials were the greater in the Autry litigation because of the broader base of the complaint which evoked the Sherman and Clayton acts.

● JOHN Q. PUBLIC'S DIM VIEW of theater television insofar as it related to the loss of outstanding sports events, customarily received for free on his home set, was pointed up in late June by the advent in New York of a Fair Television Practices Committee.

● IN EARLY JULY, Si H. Fabian was elected chairman of the National Exhibitors' Theater Television Committee to replace Frank Walker.

Two interesting television stories saw daylight on the 10th. Milwaukee TV station WTMJ acceded to the local censors' request for a listing of scheduled films. In New York General Precision announced it would market a direct projection theater TV system.

That exhibitors might be outbid for sports events desired for theater TV was made evident in mid-July when a syndicate of receiver manufacturers obtained the rights to the Charles vs. Walcott fight.

● ON AUG. 8 the TV Exhibitors Corp. demonstrated a new low-cost theater TV projector utilizing rear and front screen projection. On Aug. 13, it was disclosed that William Dozier, former assistant to Samuel Goldwyn, was joining CBS Television. In mid-August two new television companies were formed. Chertok TV Productions and Distribution Corp. was launched by Jack Chertok and Charles K. Feldman while Arthur W. Kelly formed a company bearing his name. In late August Republic's Hollywood Television Service sold rights to 175 Republic pictures for one year to station KTTV for a reported $225,000. It was the forerunner of other deals.

● AS SEPTEMBER BOWED in, the FCC announced it would consolidate its public hearings on the ABC-UPT merger with hearings earlier announced on the broad issue of antitrust violations by Paramount Pictures. The hearings were left over for 1952.

In early September, the SAG cancelled its Lippert contract because of film sales to television but subsequently postponed cancellation for 90 days. On Sept. 20 the Century Projector Corp.

was named sole agent for Paramount's intermediary, Theater TV equipment. The Philadelphia City Council made curious history in late September by petitioning the State legislature to ban theater TV. On Sept. 24 NBC was disclosed to be entering the daily TV news field.

● OCTOBER WAS USHERED in with Screen Gems planning to produce a weekly Hollywood newsreel for TV stations. Early in October, too, NBC acquired Warners' Flatbush studio in a half million dollar deal to convert for television purposes. On Oct. 4 it was announced that the Guild Newsreel Theater in New York would be the first newsreel house in the world to get large screen TV.

On Oct. 9 the Government filed an antitrust action in Philadelphia against the National Football League and 12 member pro teams in an attempt to break up restrictions on televising and broadcasting of games. In mid-October, the SAG served notice that if films produced for television were released to theaters an additional payment must be negotiated.

● IT WAS ANNOUNCED on Oct. 21 that Universal's subsidiary, United World Films, would produce, distribute and sell exclusive films for television. On its heels came the announcement that a Paramount subsidiary, Paramount Television Productions, would also produce and distribute video films.

● STARTING IN EARLY NOVEMBER, Paramount's Inter-film theater TV was employed to expedite film coverage of the United Natons General Assembly in Paris for CBS-TV. On Nov. 7 Monogram announced the organization of Interstate Television Corp. as a wholly owned subsidiary, with G. Ralph Branton as president. The same day it was disclosed that Republic had allocated one million dollars to provide new studio facilities for television productions and to finance initial pictures. The first major Hollywood star to take the plunge, Ginger Rogers, on Nov. 20 signed a long-term contract with CBS-TV. On Nov. 22 it was announced that Official Films, Inc. and Hal Roach, Jr. had joined for TV production. Subsequently Roach formed Hal Roach, Jr. Productions to produce both features and TV pics.

● THESE VIDEO DEVELOPMENTS, too, were of industry interest in 1951: Inaugural of the Coast-to-Coast network. . . . Abrupt suspension of CBS color television for home viewers after the FCC had authorized commercial operation. . . . In late December the disclosure that on Oct. 16-19, RCA had quietly effected the first transcontinental color TV transmission, sending a 15-minute variety show from New York to Los Angeles and San Francisco. . . . In December, CBS, employing a closed circuit, transmitted to New York and Chicago color scenes of a surgeon performing a heart operation in Los Angeles.

IV

¶ INTERNATIONAL. Nineteen fifty-one was a year of marked industry progress overseas. Thanks to the wise exercise of statecraft in high places, and diligent attention on a day-to-day basis to ever-mounting problems, the balancing of the international ledger indicates that the industry enjoyed its second biggest year in history insofar as European earnings are concerned. Total overseas revenue for the year was in excess of $130,000,000.

This was in the face of such major handicaps as the generally serious shortages of dollars abroad, the severe economic demands of the West's rearmament program, and the ferment of nationalism as domestic industries pressed their causes.

The more important black entries in the industry's 1951 ledger include new film agreements with Great Britain and Italy; the lifting of French restrictions on film remittances; the negotiation of a new Spanish accord, unsigned, however, as the year ended; an agreement with West Germany assuring the unrestricted entry of American films; the ending of the Argentine import impasse; an increase in Australian remittances.

● BUT THERE WERE HEADACHES, too, and some were uncured as the year waned. Japan moved to restrict American import licenses. Belgium gave attention to both restrictions on American imports and remittances. And there was a threat of restrictions, too, in Brazil, while in Mexico the threat of a screen quota clouded the outlook.

The new British film agreement, to run two years, with provision for possible revision at the end of the first 12 months, was formally signed in the MPAA headquarters in Washington on Oct. 17, Sir Frank Lee, permanent secretary of the Board of Trade, being the British signatory, with Joyce O'Hara acting for the MPAA, Ellis G. Arnall for the SIMPP.

• THE BRITISH NEGOTIATIONS, as customary, were conducted in London. It was on Aug. 2 that the American negotiating team comprising Joyce O'Hara and John G. McCarthy of the MPEA and James A. Mulvey of the SIMPP reached agreement with their British opposites. While the new accord provided for retention of the basic 17 millions in remittances, it was anticipated that the total might rise up to $25,000,000, a reflection of benefits up to $6,000,000 under the Eady tax plan, plus an estimated $3,000,000, the equivalent of 33-1/3 per cent invested in British production by American companies, and an estimated $1,000,000, the equivalent of money expended for American rights to British pictures. The new agreement had been approved by both the SIMPP and the MPEA by Aug. 17.

Before the actual opening of negotiations there were the usual preliminary moves. These favorably set the stage. Thus, in late April, the MPAA ended the so-called unit program in British distribution.

However, there was a cloud looming on the British horizon at the year end. Tom O'Brien, M.P., general secretary of the NATKE, spoke out, warning that UK import duties might be necessary in 1952. It was import duties that once halted American film exports to Britain.

• A NEW FIVE-YEAR ITALIAN FILM AGREEMENT was signed in Rome on May 22 by John G. McCarthy, MPEA vice-president. Among other things it provides for MPEA member companies to import 225 films annually with American indies expected to supply an additional 50 or 60. Defreezing of American film earnings also was provided and in late August the Italian Government permitted the remittal of $3,200,000 representing the first installment provided under the agreement. The total of American funds frozen in Italy at the time the agreement was signed approached five million dollars.

On Aug. 28, THE FILM DAILY reported that the Italian Government had extended the ceilings on rentals for one year, a final compromise proposal by the American companies being rejected by AGIS.

• THE NEW AUSTRALIAN REMITTANCE AGREEMENT, also disclosed in late May, raised the remittable percentage from 50 per cent to 75 per cent with 1946 fixed as the base year.

On June 6, John G. McCarthy, returning from overseas, disclosed that the French Government had ended its restriction on the remittance of American film earnings. Under the 1948 pact, American companies were permitted to remit only $1,200,000 annually.

That the American industry would seek other French concessions when negotiating a new agreement in 1952 was made very clear. Among the American objectives: A material increase in the number of license permits, now fixed at 121; a chance in the screen quota now requiring that French films be exhibited five weeks in every quarter.

• ANNOUNCEMENT THAT ARGENTINA had ended the impasse on a U. S. film agreement came on June 18. A month later, the Peron Government issued the first film import permits for American pictures in two years. In short order 400 import permits went to 11 companies.

• THE WEST GERMAN GOVERNMENT'S agreement to permit unrestricted American film imports was revealed on Sept. 19 by John G. McCarthy on his return from his last overseas journey of the year.

On Dec. 17, the MPAA announced the further extension, for one year, of the Canadian Cooperation Agreement.

A new Spanish agreement negotiated for the American industry by John G. McCarthy ran into difficulties late in the year, objections being encountered both from MPEA member companies as well as independents represented by SIMPP. Discussions looking to a satisfactory solution were being conducted at the year end with Stanton Griffis, the American Ambassador to Spain using his good offices.

• CHRONOLOGICAL RUNDOWN of other newsworthy events on the international side shows these entries.

On April 3, THE FILM DAILY disclosed that South Africa had ended its freeze of U. S. film remittances. On May 7, THE FILM DAILY reported that the Japanese Government would limit American import licenses to 150 features. Confirmation came in July when the Government imposed a film import quota of 215 features for 1951-52 with American companies receiving 150 permits. At the same time, the Japanese Government moved to limit American film remittances to 40 per cent and ended the flat payment policy for American films.

In late May 20th-Fox disclosed it would end its lease on J. Arthur Rank's Denham studio in September.

As August ended, the domestic industry in Mexico joined with American distributors in a dual attack on an impending 50 per cent screen quota.

In early September, Hoyt's Theaters of Australia acquired an interest in 24 Waterman Bros. theaters. The deal rated American attention because of 20th-Fox's control of Hoyt's.

● ON SEPT. 23, the State Department named a distinguished group of 12 industry and educational leaders to a special Film Advisory Committee to study operations of the Department's overseas film operations. The appointees: Ned E. Depinet, John G. McCarthy, Y. Frank Freeman, Gunther Lessing, Frank Capra, Edmund Reek, Gordon Biggar, Joseph J. McPherson, Peter J. Mooney, Ralph W. Steele, Donald K. White, Walter A. Wittich.

Twentieth-Fox's plan for Italian production with Italo-Franco participation made headlines in early October when Rome cables noted that the Italian Government's support had been pledged.

● THE BELGIAN MARKET, the only one remaining free of restrictions in Europe, became the source of anxiety in early October when the Belgian Government indicated it contemplated restricting U. S. films to 225 features annually with the remittances cut to about 80 per cent of the American earnings there.

On Nov. 8, it was announced that 20th-Fox would handle physical distribution in South Africa for Republic pictures. Later in the month, THE FILM DAILY disclosed MPEA plans to move against the existing 30 per cent ceiling on rentals in Norway.

The Brazilian Government on Nov. 17 made effective new quota restrictions; Brazilian theaters must show one domestic film for each eight imports, must match rentals for imports with rentals for domestic films.

UNESCO, on the basis of its world film survey, reported in December that American product supplied 65 per cent of the demand in the foreign markets, rated the U. S., India, Japan and Italy as the leaders in production, but noted that the USSR dominated in the feature-length documentary field.

Late in December, the Burmese Government enlisted the services of Louis de Rochemont, through the Economic Co-operation Administration, to develop production there. Here was something new indeed.

V

¶ GOVERNMENT VS. THE INDUSTRY. On June 7 in the Federal Court House in New York, Twentieth Century-Fox became the fourth major company to affix its corporate signature to a consent decree. A few days earlier, the Department of Justice, after long negotiation, had finally reached an agreement with the company to that end.

The judgment separated the 20th-Fox domestic theater operations from its production and distribution business (divorcement) and provided that National Theaters must divest itself of 91 of its 541 theaters, with provision that there be further divestiture of 57 others in specified localities if competition fails to develop there in a given time.

The time limit for divestiture and divorcement: Two years. However, at the year-end the company was aiming to accomplish this by June next.

On Oct. 4, the company stockholders formally approved the plan of reorganization which assured the new three million-share film company varying degrees of interest in 487 foreign theaters, the 20th-Fox existing Ediphor license, etc., etc.

● DURING THE YEAR, Loew's and the Department of Justice continued exploratory talks with a view to a consent decree; it remained unfinished business for 1952.

● THE WARNER CONSENT DECREE, a late 1950 development, was approved by the New York Statutory Court on Jan. 4, and subsequently the stockholders accepted the proposed reorganization plan, the reorganization to be completed by April. 1953. The stock exchange will be on the basis of half shares in the two new companies for each share in the company which must pass.

The decree carries a special provision applying to the stock of Harry M., Jack L. and Maj. Albert Warner and their families which in the aggregate approximates 24 per cent of stock outstanding. It requires the three brothers to determine in a 27-month period which of the new companies they will affiliate with and dispose of their stock in the other company or place it in a voting trust, the stock to be voted by a court-appointed trustee. The Warners' choice of future affiliation: The new distribution-production company.

● ON JULY 29, the Department of Justice startled the industry by moving to amend the United Artists and Universal judgments in the Government's equity suit. The Government's objectives: A bar to common officers, directors or agents, a further bar to an executive of either company from acting as counsel for other companies, and a requirement that United Artists offer for sale the assets acquired from Eagle Lion Classics.

The affidavit supporting the Government's move cited the fact that three partners in the law firm of Phillips, Nizer, Benjamin and Krim held responsible positions in three of the defendant companies in the Government's suit—Krim in UA, Benjamin in UA and Universal and Phillips in Paramount.

The Government's charges were denied by United Artists and Universal, and dismissal of the litigation was asked on Sept. 3.

● ON FEB. 15, the Statutory Court set a time limit of two years for Howard Hughes, RKO Radio managing director-production, to sell his holdings in the new RKO Theaters, with an added two-year limit in which the trustees must sell should Hughes fail to make a deal. The order was signed March 29 and fixed Feb. 20, 1953 as the deadline for sale of Hughes' 24 per cent interest.

Hughes in due course attacked the Statutory Court's order, and on Oct. 8 the Supreme Court agreed to rule on whether and when he must dispose of the stock held in trust. In a brief filed Dec. 18. Hughes asserted there is to be found in the RKO consent decree no provision requiring him to sell his stock or which "authorizes the court to force a sale on him."

● THESE DEVELOPMENTS also made headlines during the year:

In late February, the Government approved amendments to the Paramount consent decree permitting single ownership by UPT of the Interstate and Consolidated circuits in Texas and immediately thereafter it was announced that Karl Hoblitzelle and Robert J. O'Donnell had signed 10-year management contracts with UPT. On March 1, the Statutory Court approved an amendment to the Paramount decree permitting UPT to retain possession of 95 Interstate houses.

On July 1, a Federal Grand Jury in Chicago returned an indictment charging nine area drive-ins with antitrust violations.

As July ended, the Government acted to remove Maurice H. Bent, James T. Brown and J. P. Dreibelbis as directors of RKO Theaters. Bent and Brown shortly resigned, William J Wardall and Leland Hayward being elected to succeed. On Oct. 18, the Statutory Court denied the Government motion to bar Dreibelbis and to retrain the Irving Trust Co., trustee of Hughes' theater stock, from voting into office any persons ever linked to Hughes.

On Dec. 19, the Government filed a new antitrust suit in Chicago which had industry interest and impact. It charged conspiracy, naming the National Electric Sign Association and four of its officers.

¶ COMPO. Twice during 1951 the Council of Motion Picture Organizations gave convincing proof of its value to the industry.

And yet as the year waned there was still to be noted dragging at the heels in some quarters, lip service in others and, generally speaking the fact that the financing plan sired by Francis S. Harmon during his secretaryship had failed of acceptance by exhibition. During the year, the plan, based on percentage of film rentals, had brought COMPO approximately $160,000, a far cry from the anticipated $600,000. Indicative, too, was the fact that the annual election of officers was still to be held as the year passed into history.

● COMPO'S FIRST MAJOR industry contribution came in late July when in Beverly Hills exhibitors and producers met across the conference table for a frank face-to-face exchange of viewpoint. Gael Sullivan, TOA executive director, and chairman of the Council's round table committee on arrangements calling the assembly to order.

For three days, July 24-26, as the chairmanship rotated among the delegates a procession of speakers took the floor to discuss a variety of subjects and problems. The number and quality of pictures, new faces, film cycles, message pictures, audience tastes, stories, screen credits, picture titles, television, small budget pictures, advertising and trailers, public relations and a theater jubilee—these importantly came in for serious and, on occasion, spirited attention.

It was the theater jubilee, subsequently to take the name of "Movietime, U.S.A.," which emerged as the round table's No. One benefaction. Its consideration and enthusiastic endorsement marked the Round Table's final day, and was a happy augury of the success which was to crown the national promotion's first phase, the Hollywood celebrity tours in October.

● PLANS FOR THE THEATER JUBILEE were born in Texas in June, and the jubilee's sire was the grand old man of exhibition there, Col. H. A. Cole, one-time president of national Allied. The Colonel broached the idea to another Lone Star stalwart, Robert J. O'Donnell, Interstate executive and industry servant par excellence. Together they first presented it to distribution heads in New York, proposing that it be coordinated with similar COMPO activity. Instead, it was to become the pattern for COMPO'S national business-boosting campaign for which O'Donnell was drafted as national director.

The campaign paid off handsomely on press and public relations levels, both of major importance, and while no one could say that there were box office benefits to the extent of so many dollars for specific pictures or individual companies, the general "lift" at the box office in October as well as before and beyond spoke for itself.

That the pre-Movietime press enthusiasm easily could have had box office effect was indicated when the Bureau of Internal Revenue reported general admission tax collections in October, reflecting the September gate, soared to $37,302,260, the best October since 1947 and the best month since December, 1948.

No little impetus was given the "Movietime" cause by an article appearing in the Aug. 13 issue of Life magazine asserting "theaters are closing all over the nation and the moving picture business keeps going downhill." There were those who felt Life had confused industry statistics with its own circulation figures.

● THERE WERE CERTAIN TOUR DISAPPOINTMENTS; there were not sufficient Hollywood volunteers to meet all territorial requirements, and some of the brightest "names" were conspicuous by their absence. But there was this explanation: The week picked for Expedition John Q. Public happened to be a peak production period in the studios. Next time, it was certain, there would be more careful planning.

Producer-distributors poured out a million dollars, more or less, for the "Movietime" advertising phase and tour expenses. Theater operators, it was estimated, spent another million. They got a bargain, perhaps the bargain of the year, bar none.

● APPROXIMATELY 225 Hollywoodians went on the initial and later tours. Their appearances in cities, towns, villages, hamlets and whistle stops approximated 8,000! And the Hollywoodians returned home, impressed as never before not only with their public but with the men who own, operate and staff the nation's theaters.

Equally important was the determination by theater men in states and areas to maintain their "Movietime" organizations for continued activity. Texas again set the example.

● ON THE FIRST DAY, the Round Table adopted a plan advanced by Columbia President Harry Cohn for permanent co-operation and liaison between production and exhibition. The plan: A revolving committee of 30 exhibitors, drawn from all sections of the country and representing all major exhibitor groups, from which would be drawn five-man panels to meet bimonthly in Hollywood with producer opposites.

For reasons never clearly stated,—one could be financing—there was no activation. Subsequently, there were suggestions that future Round Tables include distribution representatives. And on Oct. 23, the Motion Picture Exhibitors of Florida formally called for a seminar so constituted, to be held in New York. As the year ended, there the Round Table matter rested.

● COMPO AGAIN CARRIED THE BALL tax-wise for exhibition and scored when the new revenue measure was passed with a materially tighter provision pertaining to non-profit groups than was originally favored by the House.

This assured that the ticket impost would continue to be levied on all film shows, including those sponsored by religious, educational and charitable organizations. Nonetheless, it was a close squeak, and pointed up the necessity of unceasing vigilance . . . and of friendly relations with Congressmen on the grass roots level.

The COMPO brief was written by Abram F. Myers, national Allied's able general counsel and board chairman, who also made the oral presentation to the Congressional committee and as well conducted the vast correspondence in the vital follow through. Incidentally, it was Allied who made available Myers' time and bore the expense of printing the brief and carrying on the correspondence.

• COMPO'S INTERNAL PROBLEMS reached a solution of sorts during the year. In early January, when a schism threatened largely because TOA dissatisfaction, Nathan J. Yamins, onetime national Allied president, presented a compromise reorganization plan to the Executive Board. It was not until late July, however, before ratification had been completed.

Established was a new policy-making Executive Committee of 31 members, comprising the voting membership of the original Executive Board, plus a maximum of seven Allied representatives, as many TOA representatives, and seven other members-at-large, with PCC receiving recognition among the latter.

To the Executive Committee passed the veto power on any subject which may come before it.

There was recognition of future COMPO growth, too: Maximum number of directions was increased to 75.

The device to accord state and regional exhibitor organizations direct representation was frankly designed to satisfy the murmurings in TOA circles, and induce Charles P. Skouras to bring his National Theaters into the COMPO orbit. The year end found Skouras still aloof.

• OTHER PROMOTIONAL PROJECTS came in for further COMPO study during the year, among them a Motion Picture Exposition in New York, conceived by Fred Schwartz, projected for March, 1952, and a Star Makers' contest, sponsored by Leonard Goldenson. While both had been okayed in principle in 1950 by the Executive Board, neither made any great progress toward realization. COMPO indeed found it expedient late in the year to make it plain that the Exposition was not on its program. And although the MPAA board tacitly gave the project its blessing, referring it however to the studio heads for the final say so, the latter could not seem to find time for a meeting with a New York exhibitor committee ready to make the trip to the Coast.

• HOWEVER, COMPO as the year ended was awaiting the green light—and greenbacks, too—from distribution for a further ambitious promotion campaign embracing as major facets newspaper advertising, Hollywoodian tours, a speakers' bureau, a national contest tied closely to the box office.

And COMPO was preparing to tackle the extremely knotty and highly ticklish question of unfavorable industry publicity.

Both TOA and national Allied renewed their COMPO affiliation for another year by appropriate action.

On Aug. 12, it was announced that O'Donnell had resigned as COMPO's treasurer. He was succeeded by Herman Robbins.

On Nov. 20, appointment of Rotus Harvey as chairman of COMPO's permanent Round Table Committee was made public.

VII

¶ NATIONAL DEFENSE. Although the industry, through COMPO, had been quick to volunteer it services to the Government after the start of the Korean "police action" in 1950, there were no major requests for such co-operation reported during 1951. However, as the year ended, COMPO was preparing to make industry moves in such direction early in 1952. One would be concerned with the recruitment of sorely needed female personnel for the Army, the second with Civil Defense, and a third with scrap metal collections.

In September, there was one impressive demonstration of how the industry, through its theaters equipped with large screen television might be of unestimable value civic defense-wise. On Sept. 15, four houses in New York, Washington, Philadelphia and Baltimore, linked by closed circuit, became classrooms for "The School for Survival." For an hour, several thousand civil defense workers participated in a pioneer training experiment which was made possible by the technique of theater television.

Here was to be found the shape of things to come, indeed, as exhibition demonstrated the public service factor of the theater's new entertainment medium.

• IT WAS ON exhibition's physical side that the motion picture industry felt the greatest impact of the nation's mighty rearmament effort in 1951.

In an effort to meet the needs of the country's defense program the National Production Authority placed restrictions on the use of essential materials required for the manufacture of motion picture equipment and supplies. This struck a heavy blow at the equipment industry. Some manufacturers of theater equipment and supplies had no choice but to fall back upon what substitutes they could find for vital materials or else to pare their production down to the bone.

The drastic cut in production had an adverse effect on the sales of theater equipment and supplies. Some of the manufacturers filled the void by taking on Government work. The limitations placed by the NPA on theater building and on the amount that could be spent by theaters for new equipment and its installation conspired to retard the sale of equipment and supplies and to slow down theater modernization and improvement.

● ON JAN. 23, appointment of Nathan D. Golden as director of the NPA's motion picture and photographic products division was announced. The same day, too, saw Eric A. Johnston, MPAA-MPEA-AMPP president-on-leave, sworn in as the Government's Economic Stabilization Administrator. In about 10 months, starting from scratch, Johnston had created an organization of some 11,000, in itself no minor achievement.

The Government disclosed in early February that it would leave production of 16 mm. films for civilian defense and other official purposes to the industry, scrapping the OWI World War II policy. Later in the month, the Department of Commerce established a low export ceiling on raw stock: a directive banned negative shipments valued at more than $25.

● ON MARCH 7, the War Stabilization Board authorized the film industry to follow its historic salary pattern as to enumerated artist categories. Later in the year, to ponder the extent of Government control of talent, the Salary Stabilization Board named a special committee comprising Roy Hendrickson, Neil Agnew and Philip Siff. The committee concluded the industry required no such control, could do its own policing.

On April 3, appointment of Lincoln V. Burrows, associated with Eastman Kodak, as consultant to the NPA motion picture-photographic products division, was announced.

On May 13, theater scales were specifically exempted from the OPA price posting order.

On July 9, the Office of Price Stabilization ruled actors on a fee basis are not under salary ceilings.

On Aug. 12, a new NPA order placed a $5,000 ceiling on theater building costs. Subsequently, the NPA with an amended construction order, M-4A, cancelled the $5,000 ceiling. The order replaced the limitation on certain metals classified as vital. Still later, on Oct. 1, the NPA's Controlled Materials Plan became operative, and finally late in December the NPA amended Regulation No. 5 to give theater owners and equipment manufacturers certain priority assistance in obtaining materials needed for installation of equipment in buildings already established.

● IN EARLY AUGUST, COMPO, on behalf of the industry, sought a reversal of a Commerce Department ruling which stripped the industry of its "essentiality" status. The reversal was still to come at the year end.

In mid-August, the NPA inaugurated a national copper-dripping salvage program which enlisted wide industry co-operation.

● GOLDEN at the year end, on the basis of the materials situation, said it was evident that the construction of motion picture theaters of all types, the manufacture of motion picture equipment, and still photographic products during 1952 "will have to be decreased somewhat in comparison with 1951."

"It is evident that it will not be until at least early 1953 before productional levels approaching those of the last year can be resumed," Golden asserted.

VIII

¶ EXHIBITION. The ferment in the field of exhibition quickened in 1951. The manifestations were both numerous and painfully obvious. One facet is dealt with apart in another cataegory of this annual review, Trade Litigation. Others, more or less closely related, were of scarcely less importance. Trade practices and film rentals were well to the fore throughout the year as subjects of exhibitor discussion and complaint, and the year-end saw the tempo—and temper—accentuated rather than otherwise.

Coupled with the issue of terms was another, best described as the impact of terms upon the theater operator's own economic scheme of things. The exhibitor's point was this: While there was no distributor requirement that advanced admissions be charged his patrons, the terms demanded for certain pictures made such advanced admissions necessary if there was to be a profitable engagement.

The problem, and such it obviously was, remained unresolved as the year waned.

● UNRESOLVED as well was the problem of arbitration. Throughout the year, from time to time, there were heard calls for the establishment of a new arbitration system. Everybody, it seemed, was for arbitration per se, and recognized its necessity, its urgency. Unfortunately, there generally was, it seemed, too, a but—or two or three.

THE FILM DAILY, polling the nation's exhibitors, reported the results of its survey on April 20. The poll indicated that with exhibitor sentiment then veering in support of an industry-wide arbitration system, theater operators by a vote of approximately three to two favored direction of such a system by the American Arbitration Association. The AAA had administered the system established under the original consent decree in the Government's antitrust action.

Both national exhibitor associations gave attention to arbitration at their respective New York conventions. The TOA convention in late September received a report from a committee headed by Walter Reade, Jr., which adopted, called upon distribution "to use its best efforts forthwith to formulate a plan of arbitration and to offer it to the industry."

"We pledge ourselves to adopt any such workable system," said the report. "TOA will continue its efforts in all ways available to bring about a system of arbitration in the immediate future. The fact that other exhibitor associations may not be receptive to this obvious need and remedy must no longer deter its inception."

● ALLIED STATES ASSOCIATION tacitly took note of the TOA committee report when on Nov. 2 it brought its convention to a close with the adoption of a resolution calling for the establishment of an all-industry all-inclusive system of arbitration.

Embraced in the Allied plan were clearances and prints, competitive bidding, film rentals, illegal setting of admission prices, forcing of pictures, preferred playing time, short subjects, runs and "any other topic we can get together on."

The Allied action had not been anticipated.

● SUBSEQUENTLY, on Nov. 18, Herman M. Levy, TOA general counsel, released a statement which, for the first time, suggested that production be accorded a voice in arbitration's establishment. Levy spoke of the requirement of "an equal partnership."

And in the same statement, he made it plain that TOA favored an arbitration system "operated on an efficient and inexpensive basis," held out an olive branch in Allied's direction, saying TOA is "willing at any time to sit down around the conference table, without pride of authorship, to work out the mechanics of such a system; thereafter to seek the Department of Justice approval and to work for the inclusion of the system in the final decree of U. S. vs. Paramount, et al."

● BUT ALLIED INDICATED in due course it was prepared to discuss an arbitration system with others only after its own concept had been initially formulated by Abram F. Myers, general counsel and board chairman, and placed before the distributors by an Allied committee.

That arbitration proposals of a concrete nature would feature the mid-Winter board meetings of both TOA and Allied early in 1952 was certain.

The Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theater Owners as the year waned called for the convening of an exhibitor organization congress to establish an arbitration setup, President Rotus Harvey asserting the PCC's willingness to take the initiative.

● ALLIED'S CONVENTION was marked by considerable exhibitor criticism directed at sales terms, voiced before a panel of distribution executives. As the sessions drew to a close, Allied by resolution was placed on record as protesting "illegal fixing of admission prices"—the charge was that high rentals made higher scales mandatory. And the convention by resolution also called for a more powerful film coordinating committee to seek action on distribution "evils."

● TOA AT ITS CONVENTION elected Mitchell Wolfson to succeed Samuel Pinanski as president, with Charles P. Skouras the choice for board chairman, a post previously held by Wolfson. Morris Lowenstein succeeded Russell Hardwick as secretary, and Si H. Fabian was designated to replace Walter Reade, Jr., as chairman of the powerful executive committee.

The TOA convention saw the "little exhibitor" become extremely vocal in his criticism of trade practices and the subsequent trend of events established beyond all doubt that TOA policies would take into consideration the viewpoint of the grass roots in far greater degree than ever before.

As the year passed, there was to be noted increasing TOA activity and militancy, the program pressed by Gael Sullivan, executive director, stressing, among other elements, regional grievance panels. The "little exhibitor" was having his day, indeed.

● IN NOVEMBER, Executive Director Gael Sullivan of the TOA proposed the creation of an associate membership, open to managers and assistant managers of member theater circuits upon payment of nominal dues. The TOA Executive Committee gave the move its quick blessing.

The Allied Independent Theater Owners of the Mid-South, Allied affiliate, and the Tri-State (Ark-Miss.-Tenn.) TOA held a joint convention in Memphis in October, something of a milestone. And in early December, Si H. Fabian, guest speaker at the banquet closing the Boston convention of Allied affiliate Independent Exhibitors of New England, reverted to the subject of arbitration, warning that TOA would not be drawn into the middle or at the end of any arbitration discussions. And he added that the distributors would not discuss arbitration until all segments of exhibition were represented.

● GENERALLY, in exhibition, these other events were important:

The Organization of the Motion Picture Industry of the City of New York took form, evolving from the Joint Public Relations Committee of the Motion Picture Theaters of Greater New York which was organized during the Spring.

In late May, it was disclosed that the Department of Justice, at the request of the Southern California TOA, had agreed to re-investigate the industry for the first time since the final decree in the Government's suit. As the year ended, the inquiry reportedly had indicated that Federal legislation, not legal moves, was the Coast solution.

● IN JUNE, national Allied suspended its Eastern Pennsylvania affiliate for non-payment of dues. Lifting of the suspension was still to come at the year-end.

In early December, Allied Theaters of Michigan proposed a National Congress of Film Buyers be called to work out a program keyed to the four P's: Participating Partnership Percentage Plan.

In mid-December, the Allied ITO of Wisconsin in a convention resolution proposed distributors give "realistic recognition" to theater costs in determining film rentals.

● THE YEAR IN EXHIBITION also saw the rebirth of the two-a-day at the Broadway Palace, the appearance in film theaters of a Met. Opera production of "Die Fledermaus," the appearance of the N. Y. Philharmonic at the Roxy, the rental of an RKO White Plains theater for concert purposes and the year-end disclosure that come March 25, the Sadler's Wells Theater Ballet would play a two-week stand at the Warner Theater.

IX

¶ MPAA. Eric A. Johnson, who received from the Motion Picture Association of America board on Jan. 17 a six months' leave of absence from his Presidential duties to accept a White House appointment as Economic Stabilizer, finally relinquished that Federal post at the end of November, returning officially to the association on Dec. 1. With him returned Kenneth Clark, the MPAA information director, who had followed his chief to the ESA in like capacity.

That Johnston's months in Federal service had sharpened his appreciation of Government manpower quickly became evident. On Nov. 26, an exclusive Washington dispatch to THE FILM DAILY disclosed that Johnston would bring into the industry three public servants of broad experience and considerable prestige—Ralph D. Hetzel, Jr., and George V. Vietheer, with Johnston in ESA, and Edward Cooper, staff member of the Senate Democratic Policy Committee.

Subsequently, there were disclosures of two additions, both from ESA—G. Griffith Johnson, its chief economic adviser, and Norman Kuhne, publicist.

● AT A PRESS CONFERENCE in New York on Dec. 5, Johnston announced that the association's headquarters in the future would be established in New York, and this without de-emphasis of the Washington offices.

At the conference, too, there was a definition of assignments for new and old personnel. Joyce O'Hara, senior vice-president, remains in Washington as Johnston's high level personal assistant, with Vietheer charged with the management and personnel of the capital office. Col. Richard T. McDonnell, who joined the association early in the year to manage the office, was shifted to contact work with the State and Defense Departments and Washington Embassies. It was indicated further that O'Hara would be more concerned with foreign matters. Kuhne's post was given as Washington.

Johnston, giving the greater part of his time to New York, as would Clark, announced Hetzel would be in charge of operations at the association headquarters. Johnson's base had not been disclosed as the year ended.

Confirmation of Cooper's affiliation with the association did not come until Dec. 18 when his appointment as MPAA television director was announced. It was an assignment for which his Capitol Hill associations made him exceptionally well qualified.

● THESE SEVERAL MOVES were subject to a single interpretation: Johnston returned to his industry duties determined to exercise a more aggressive personal leadership.

And at his press conference he made it plain that one of his principal interests from here on in was the international market, its protection and its expansion.

● DURING THE MONTHS of Johnston's absence, Joyce O'Hara was acting head, quietly giving generously of his talents. The association's recognition was indicated twice. On March 27, he was elected a vice-president. And on June 5 he was designated a vice-president of the Motion Picture Export Association.

The latter association, having generally fulfilled its special purpose in the foreign field, was nearing the liquidation stage as the year faded. Irving A. Maas, its able vice-president and general manager, terminated his services on Dec. 31, leaving Herbert J. Erlanger to conclude the final stages under the supervision of Vice-President John C. McCarthy.

This, however, was significant. The corporate identity of the association, established under the provision of the Webb-Pomerene Act, continues, permitting the association to function should events overseas so require.

● MAAS IN HIS FINAL REPORT to the MPEA board covering operations in 13 countries from June, 1946, to Oct. 31 last disclosed that the export association was responsible for remittances of $8,607,040, of which $3,100,228 were accounted for by the so-called Iron Curtain countries.

● THROUGHOUT 1951, the Advisory Unit for Foreign Films of the international division under the guidance of B. Bernard Kreisler carried forward its beneficial program. The framework for the Italian agreement was largely devised while the unit nominally played host to an Italian industry delegation. Here in April were Dr. Francesco Penotti, president of the Italian Film Distributors Association; Dr. Eitel Monaco, president of the Italian Association of Motion Picture and Allied Industries, and Italo Gemini, president of the Italian Film Exhibitors Association. Late in the year, the British Film Producers Association was represented by two distinguished visitors, Maj. Reginald P. Baker and Sir Henry L. French, president and director general, respectively.

● CHRONOLOGICALLY, these other MPAA developments of the year were of varying degrees of importance.

On Feb. 4, Cecil B. Dickson resigned as coordinator of information for the House of Representatives to join the association as assistant to the president, and on Feb. 21, a cut version of the controversial British import, J. Arthur Rank's "Oliver Twist," finally was granted the PCA's seal.

The association's directors, approving PCA amendments on March 27 closed the door to screen treatment of abortion, the illegal drug traffic and drug addiction, further tightened the regulation covering screen treatment of suicide but eased the regulation pertaining to scenes showing law enforcement officers dying at the hands of criminals.

● IN EARLY APRIL, the association placed before a House Judiciary subcommittee a proposal that there be a statutory three-year limit on the period in which private litigants may sue for treble damages arising out of antitrust law violations. The Government had urged produced by a six-year limit. The period now is determined by the laws of the state in which action is brought. The matter remained unfinished industry business at the year end.

As partial background for the association's move for a uniform three-year statutory limitation, there was a late 1950 decision—first of its kind—by Federal Judge William W. Ritter in the Utah district which ruled that exhibitors may claim damages going back as far as 1936. The action was that brought by James A. Christensen, owner of the Arcade Theater, Salt Lake City.

Utah has a four-year limitation. But it was the plaintiff's contention that under the antitrust laws, the statute of limitations applicable in the case had been suspended ever since July 30, 1938, the date on which the Government filed its celebrated suit in equity. "I have concluded," ruled Judge Ritter, "that the common sense view of the matter is that U. S. vs. Paramount was pending during the hiatus of the period of the consent decree. . . . "

● ON APRIL 26, the resignation of Harold L. Smith as MPAA international division representative in Hollywood was announced.

In early July, the association inaugurated a PR program in connection with films properly subject to such exploitation.

As August began, Gerald M. Mayer resigned as the association's Continental manager to accept a Government post. His successor had not been named at the year-end. New foreign assignments followed for both M. A. J. Healy, moved from the Middle East to Spain, and Eugene Van Dee, installed in Rome.

● IN MID-OCTOBER, Edward T. Cheyfitz resigned as an assistant to the president to enter private law practice in Washington.

On Nov. 12 there came from the Italian Government signal recognition of the yeomanry service performed by John G. McCarthy, vice-president in charge of international affairs, in restoring Italo-American harmony, to the benefit of both industries. Upon McCarthy Italy bestowed its own decoration, the Star of Solidarity.

¶ SIMPP. As the headlines of the year bear witness, it was largely with the overseas market that the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers was concerned in 1951. James A. Mulvey, veteran of previous negotiations with the British, again served on the American team which brought home an improved Anglo-American remittance agreement during the Summer. And the Society gave close attention, too, to the Italian agreement, developments in West Germany and the proposed Spanish accord. In September, there was talk that the Society might appoint its own European representative.

● DOMESTICALLY, It was the Society's adoption of a resolution by board action in Hollywood on June 27 which caused the greatest stir. This resolution urged the FCC to speedily license "worthy systems of subscription television so as to afford the public with a more abundant opportunity to enjoy quality feature length pictures."

The industry, the resolution asserted, "should be expanded without artificial limitations or restrictions."

The Society's position found quick endorsement from those interested in pay-as-you-see video, but as was perhaps to be expected, theater operators took a dim view and the PCCITO by resolution deplored it as "detrimental."

● FORMER GOV. ELLIS G. ARNALL of Georgia was re-elected president of the Society at its annual meeting in Hollywood in June. In March, briefly, very briefly, there was a possibility that the Society would close its New York headquarters. Reason: economy.

As March ended, Gunther Lessing, the Society's board chairman, was oppointed to the U. S. National Commission for UNESCO.

¶ LABOR. The year brought the signing of two major labor contracts. On Oct. 9, the Colosseum of Motion Picture Salesmen unanimously ratified a compromise agreement reached in late August. It provided for a $7 per week pay increase—$3 less than had been sought—for approximately 1,000 salesmen plus $1-per-day increase in on-the-road expense allowances for the salesmen.

The compromise came after prolonged negotiation, not always free from bitterness. In early September dissatisfaction with the terms of the compromise caused the Chicago Loge to withdraw from the Colosseum and organize as the Motion Picture Salesmen's Guild. It was estimated the increase would add at least $364,000 to the distributors' payroll.

● IN OCTOBER, for a period of two weeks representatives of the studios and the IATSE unions having studio jurisdiction engaged intensively in bargaining. The end results were two-year contracts which provided for wage adjustments adding an estimated $5,000,000 to annual production costs. The contract increases became effective Oct. 25.

Importantly, in addition to providing for the immediate increases, the new contracts embodied, at the studios' suggestion, an escalator clause tied to the cost-of-living index. The immediate increase was 24 cents per hour or 10 per cent, whichever is greater, up to a maximum of $18.50 per week.

The living-cost escalator clause calls for a one cent per hour increase for every eight-tenths point advance in the index but goes into effect only if the index rises five points, and can operate in reverse, on a downward trend in the index, providing the reduction does not go below the present level.

Studios in addition agreed to pay five cents hourly on all straight time into a jointly-administered health and welfare fund, and will pay daily workers for six holidays observed annually by the studios.

A pension and retirement fund which had been sought by the IATSE was not granted.

As the year ended, not all of the unions had formally signed; the reason; minor differences, still to be ironed out.

● IATSE ESTABLISHED a new radio and television department to facilitate organization of technicians especially in TV. The IA's white collar union here, Home Office Employes Union, Local H-63, gained new ground in the industry through NLRB elections, winning control over many units formerly represented by District 65 of the Distributive, Processing and Office Workers of America, a catch-all made up of a number of unions dropped by the CIO.

Local H-63 gained a foothold in the publicity field when it was selected as the new bargaining agent for publicists at Paramount, who were formerly represented by District 65. The year also marked the growing importance of the Sign-Pictorial and Display Union, Local 230, AFL, as a bargaining agent for publicists and artists in the film industry here.

● SIGNIFICANTLY, at the year end the IATSE—and management, too—was giving thought to future industry-wide negotiation of contracts for "white collar" employes in home offices.

● THE JURISDICTIONAL DISPUTE in the TV field was unresolved as the year passed. On Dec. 1, the SAG and SEG demanded that the Television Authority's jurisdiction be restricted expressly to performers working in live shows. The Authority, countering, called upon the international board of the "4A's" talent guild to pass a resolution altering its resolution granting TVA jurisdiction over talent in TV films. The proposed amendment would put all areas of dispute into the hands of the 4A's, taking the disputes from TVA. Subsequent to such action, the convention resolution urges the SAG and SEG to attend a meeting by the 4A's in an effort to come to an "equitable agreement" which would form the basis for the introduction and passage of a new resolution covering film-television jurisdiction.

The Television Authority also in mid-December called for a merger of the branches of the AAAA by July 1, took steps meanwhile looking to a merger with AFRA.

● THE SAG URGED a Senate subcommittee on labor-management relations to exempt the industry from the so-called "30-day clause" of the Taft-Hartley Act which enables a person to work for such period of time for a union shop employer without having to apply for union membership. From Aug. 1, 1948, (the effective date of the SAG's last contract with producers following enactment of the law) to Aug. 1, last, a total of 3,566 casuals worked a day or more as actors. Of this total, the Guild says 2,761 "never again worked in pictures after their original engagement and never joined the Guild." Salary statistics compiled by SAG were offered in support of the declaration that most such free-lance workers "face a continual struggle to earn a modest livelihood," the figures showing that the majority of small part and "bit" players earn less than $5,000 a year, and that more than 25 per cent of all actors in this classification have annual incomes of less than $3,500.

Only 318 out of the SAG's more than 7,000 members are under studio term contracts, it was pointed out.

● THE AFL FILM COUNCIL of Hollywood provided a fillip to the British agreement negotiations when it preceded the opening of discussions with a letter dispatched to Secretary of State Dean Acheson asking that the State Department participate in the negotiations to safeguard "the living standards of American motion-picture workers." The Department did not participate.

Late in the year, the SWG felt the impact of political strife within its ranks, making headlines in and out of the industry.

● OTHER LABOR DEVELOPMENTS of the year of importance in chronological order are:

On March 13, the AFM and the networks reached agreement on the desirability of a separate contract covering films for television. Keystone of such contract: Payment to the Music Performance Trust Fund of five per cent of the gross program revenue of each film, with the understanding that the picture remains in the net's control at all times.

In early April, the SWG disclosed it was seeking a percentage of receipts to contributing writers for TV use of pictures made by the Independent Motion Picture Producers Association.

In mid-July, the SAG signed interim contracts with 37 new film companies, the majority of which are engaged in the making of TV films. In late December, 25 more contracts had been signed, of which 13 were with TV film producers.

● ON AUG. 12, the SAG formally requested the three producer organizations to open collective bargaining negotiations for a new two-year contract. Negotiations were deferred while attention was given by producers to the new IATSE studio contracts, but discussions were underway at the year-end.

On Aug. 23, the NLRB ruled motion picture guilds to be labor organizations, regardless of the fact that their officers might be company stockholders or film producers.

On Oct. 16, the NLRB ruled that actors employed by TV networks to make films for use on video should be a unit part for collective bargaining purposes. It was a victory for the SAG, a defeat for Television Authority.

FOREIGN FILM MARKETS

By J. C. PRIORE
Staff Writer, THE FILM DAILY

THIS PAST YEAR the news was good from overseas. Observed on a week to week basis there was plenty of news. The international film scene was again paying off and very well, too. Notwithstanding certain complications that would appear to contribute turmoil to the field the importance of foreign markets in film to the American production industry was brought out vividly in the results of a survey that was issued shortly after the turn of the year.

Industry receipts from abroad, steadily mounting during the past few years in 1951 accounted for about 40 per cent of income. Reports indicate that major companies in their operations outside the domestic field, look for around 45 per cent of their revenue deriving from foreign distribution.

On the other hand independent distributors received about 35 per cent of their total income from similar activities. One company, it was shown, one of the largest, is maintaining something like 50 per cent of its income in the export trade. Great Britain remains in first place as the most lucrative base of operations, with Italy and France leading, in that order, on the Continent. Western Germany, it is the opinion of many experts in the field, is regarded as a highly promising future market that will be developed in due time.

Last year too, South America loomed large in potential business and revealed promise of future growth. The countries in the Southern half of the Western Hemisphere are presently in a boom state. Many new theaters are being erected.

And, as always, the film export-import business has been the target of new tax schemes. Witness the recent German Government move to levy a 50,000 mark premiere release levy on film imports. Immediately it was revealed, Amrican, British, French and Italian industry groups went on record to register strenuous protest. Adopting a common front, the various groups consolidated forces to try and nip the tax in the well known bud. It was regarded as particularly perilous since other countries, other markets would imitate the pattern. German measure would stand distributors a cost of $6,000 to $10,000 per picture on initial exhibition.

Also worthy of note in the general picture of film export business was the increase of 14 per cent over 1950 of feature films and equipment. Exposed or developed film accounted for $10,051,858, compared with $8,314,044 in 1950. This included both 16 and 35 millimeter footage.

At press time new agreements were looming for France and Belgium. The current deal with France expires June 30, calls for remittances of $3,625,000 annually. Observers, taking the present French governmental plight into their analysis, indicate that a new deal would have modifications. Greece also bowed into the picture with its contribution to complication. Just a few months ago the Athens Government levied a 50 per cent ad valorem duty on American film imports. It was reported to have become effective the first of the year.

Yet, with due regard to its position as a target for higher taxes and monetary limitations, the export of the U.S. film continues a strong and going business. This past year saw any number of exceptional films running the full range. It is a sellers and buyers market at the same time. And the buyers, it is easily discernible, are very much satisfied with their purchase. What was 40 per cent of income this past year, may be very likely topped in 1952 operations.

As to continuing reception of American films abroad, it may be pointed out as an example the average program fare in France, and since facts are readily available for pinpointing, the programs current in Paris. There "Gone With the Wind" is still holding forth at a Boulevard spot. Nearby is "The River." Not too far away "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" holds. And then there is "The Great Caruso" and "On the Riviera." All around the town, from the Champs Elysees district to Montmarte, Clichy, Vaugirard, Republique and Belleville-Menilmontant, turn the corner and there is "Tomahawk," "Cyrano," Humphrey Bogart, George Raft, Lucille Ball, Bob Hope and up and down the line. The titles are slightly translated. Same is also very probably true in a lot of other places.

Further healthy stimulation of the foreign markets along lines of distributors adoption of the global point of view would derive added benefits, it has been set forth. On a basis of mutual exchange of ideas in the handling of films both exporter and importer stand to derive benefit. As Alfred E. Daff, Universal International world sales chief puts it "I strongly emphasize whenever I have the opportunity to urge the extension of COMPO and "Movietime U.S.A." to embrace foreign countries, so that common problems can be attacked on a global as well as a local level. I know of no better format than that of "Movietime U.S.A."

TELEVISION

By LARRY GOODMAN
Staff Writer, THE FILM DAILY

I. THE COMPETITOR

AT THE END OF 1950, the general figures showed that some 7,213,700 families, or 17.9 per cent of the total population, owned television receiver sets in their homes. On Nov. 1 of last year, however, the figures had just about doubled: a total of 14,558,800 sets had been installed in 33 per cent of all U.S. families.

As a competitor to the motion picture business, therefore, television was a major force to be reckoned with, particularly in view of the fact that TV set sales since November have continued to average around 500,000 monthly. In addition, for the first time in their brief history, several television stations had come out of the heavy red ink zones and were showing a modest but significant profit for the past year's operations. There could be no doubt that in the years ahead the new medium would grow stronger and stronger and make a still greater bid for the amusement dollar of the average American.

Of course, there are still some areas of the country, particularly in the South, Midwest, and Rocky Mountain regions, where television is still no threat whatsoever to the exhibitor. Stations are either non-existent or enjoy limited programming facilities; in those areas where only or two stations are to be found, the discriminating viewer will turn off his set and consider the neighborhood movie theater's offering when the TV fare sags.

Nevertheless, the luckier exhibitors in these areas are heeding the advice of their less fortunate brothers in the top television market locations. For, while there are only 64 TV markets now, only seven of which have total installations numbering over 500,000, the 1952 lifting of the "freeze" on television station construction has thrust the television spectre into practically every film exhibitor's bailiwick. The sobering facts, brought out by Dr. Allen B. DuMont recently, indicate that when the ultra-high-frequencies are assigned to television broadcasters, every one of the top 25 cities in the nation will have stations; all but two of the top 50 cities will have UHF; all but 12 of the top 200 cities will have UHF; and all but 38 of the top 320 cities will have UHF assignments.

The strength of television's opposition to films for the amusement dollar, of course, depends to a great extent on the quality of the programming the telecasters can offer. To date, it is generally conceded by even the staunchest TV advocate that there is room for tremendous improvement in this department. And, to a major degree, the matter resolves itself even more simply to the question: can TV lease current Hollywood productions from the major film companies to effectively compete with the motion picture theaters' attractions?

Television, it has become evident, must rely on film for the bulk of its programming. The tired, worn, ancient movies which TV stations have been able to obtain fared well (sometimes) as curios and nostalgic bits of the past on their first TV showings. But the repetition of these oldies, broken up as they are by commercials and editing to fit the required half-hour or hour shows (and even 15-minute presentations!), has done more to aid the cause of the film exhibitor than hurt him, in many instances. TV programmers, well aware of the situation, have been doing their utmost to land Hollywood product of more recent vintage.

To date, only a few independents and smaller companies have "traded with the enemy." During the past year, Lippert Productions, Pine-Thomas, Republic, Monogram, Edward Small, and Hal Roach, Jr., Productions made significant moves in the direction of supplying TV outlets with up-to-date features. The major companies have consistently refused to release their tremendous backlog to the stations, principally because they have not deemed the offers tempting enough. Barney Balaban, president of Paramount Pictures Corp., testified before the FCC in February of 1952 that television could have Paramount product when it could pay for it. Other company spokesmen have expressed similar sentiment, either publicly or privately. Speaking for the independents, Roy Disney recently won the acclaim of the rank and file exhibitor with his ruling that Disney product would not be released to television in view of the small revenue that could be realized in comparison with theatrical distribution returns.

On the other hand, the production of films tailor-made for television screening has been stepped up by many industry concerns. During 1951, the following developments brought home the realization that film men were joining rather than fighting the new medium:

In March, Columbia's Screen Gems subsidiary announced their TV film schedule; in April, the Fanchon and Marco circuit disclosed the formation of a subsidiary to produce films for television; Arthur W. Kelly and Jack Chertok headed up companies bearing their names in August; Universal's subsidiary, United World Films, moved over into the TV film business in October, the same month that Paramount Television Productions was formed by the major studio.

There were, of course, many others. In fact, nearly every producer-distributor in the film business, taking the cue from the numerous announcements which appeared in the press, explored the possibilities of TV pix distribution and found it to his liking. Whereas the feeling against the release of major theatrical film fare to television is still rather strong, the barriers against TV distribution of most other film offerings has been successfully battered down. It would be safe to predict that in the coming year the inhibitions will be still further swept away, although the ultimate decision on the part of the majors in regard to their valuable film libraries will hinge on the speed with which the FCC can process new station applications. Only with a far broader market base can the telecasters hope to bid successfully for Hollywood's costly productions.

II. SHOWMAN'S ANSWER

In addition to television broadcasting pure and simple, the new technological development ushered in several "by products."

There were, of course, the three forms of subscription, or "pay as you go" television: Zenith's Phonevision, Skiatron's Subscriber-Vision, and Paramount's 50 per cent-owned Telemeter. Phonevision hit the headlines first, starting its home tests in Chicago on the first of the year. Results of the 90-day test, however, were judged inconclusive by most industry observers.

Skiatron, still to seek official FCC approval for its test in New York, made a generally unsuccessful attempt to obtain top product from the majors on a "when and if" basis. Arthur Levey, Skiatron president, did announce in early December, however, that the company would build and operate its own TV stations for Subscriber-Vision. With Skiatron's nightly tests over WOR-TV completed, Levey tried to interest exhibitors in a box office sharing plan, but reaction was merely lukewarm.

Telemeter became the second system to receive the official green light from the FCC: on Oct. 10, a 90-day field test on the West Coast was authorized. To date, Board Chairman Paul Raibourn, also a vice-president of Paramount Pictures, claims that no attempt has been made to secure product from major companies.

But of far greater importance to the far-sighted exhibitor in 1951 was the growth and development of large-screen theater television. The year's developments centered on programming, color, and the unification of the industry's campaign to obtain special broadcasting channels from the FCC.

By the year's end, some 40-odd houses were equipped with large-screen apparatus, and some 20 more were in the middle of installation. The total number of theaters having equipment on order, moreover, was well over 100. The nucleus of a "Theater Television Network," however, had already been established, and while the participants admittedly lost money on 1951 theater TV operations, all were firmly convinced that theater television had proved itself: when the "per unit" cost would be greatly reduced, i.e., spread out over many more theaters, telecasts into theaters of special events would indeed be profitable.

Some programming highlights of the year: President Truman's State of the Union message was carried as a public service by 10 theaters in January; the first exclusive theater telecast of a college basketball game was carried by the Fabian Palace in Albany the following month; in May, the National Collegiate Athletic Association's television committee ruled that theater TV could program seven games on each college football schedule, whereas home telecasts would be sharply curtailed; the International Boxing Club signed with Theater Network Television for the exclusive rights to telecast a series of major outdoor fights during the Summer; a "people's committee" called the Fair Television Practices Committee was set up in late June to protest the loss to the home TV set of outstanding sporting attractions which theater TV programming was monopolizing; a syndicate of TV receiver manufacturers outbid theater TV for the Charles-Walcott championship bout rights in July; the Robinson-Turpin return engagement, however, as well as the Saddler-Pep go, were theater TV exclusives; and college football, of course, drew extremely well during the Fall months.

In the field of color theater television, there were two major developments. First to be realized was the RCA color system, demonstrated to exhibitors at the Colonial Theater in New York City on Oct. 16. Using three color barrels projecting a synchronized image on a 9-by-12 foot screen, the system was received enthusiastically, although RCA advised that commercial use was still some years away.

On the other hand, the Swiss Ediphor theater television system, to be installed in the 20th-Fox projection room and then in the Roxy Theater in New York City, is reported to provide better definition than home TV, using General Electric color cameras. At the year's end, however, no demonstration other than those in Zurich had been held for industry observers.

Showmen really made substantial progress in their FCC hearings preparations. Although hearings have been postponed again and again—now the latest word is a May 5—the industry now appears ready and united in its pitch. With the National Exhibitors' Theater Television Committee working together with the MPAA television committee and other industry elements, chances for the allocation of special theater TV channels have improved.

Exclusive airlanes for theaters, of course, are imperative if theater TV is ever to get off the ground floor. To date, the main obstacle to increased programming has been the lack of AT&T line facilities, or the prohibitive cost of same to theaters in outlying areas. If the need for these lines could be eliminated, a tremendous upswing in theater TV activities would be the inevitable result.

III. THEATER EQUIPMENT

By the year's end, there were quite a few systems, at varying prices, which the exhibitor could choose from in installing large-screen television apparatus.

The largest supplier of direct-view instantaneous equipment is RCA, whose price was reduced during the past year to $15,800. System provides a 15-by-20 foot picture with the projector placed 62 feet in front of the screen.

General Precision Laboratories is currently manufacturing two sets: The instantaneous direct-view, demonstrated for the first time in the Fall of 1951, is competitively priced with RCA's set, at $15,650. At 62 feet in front of the screen a 16-by-20 foot picture is obtained.

GPL's intermediate system, known as the Videofilm, records the image on 16 mm. film, which is processed and screened in less than a minute. List price is $33,000.

Another intermediate system, the first on the market, actually, is the Paramount system, which makes use of 35 mm. film, and again, throws an image on the screen in less than a minute after reception of the TV signal. Paramount has turned sales over to Century Projector Corp.; price is quoted at $25,000.

The Eidiphor, still to be presented commercially, will probably take its place with the other leaders during the coming years on the basis of prospective National Theaters orders. 20th-Fox and General Electric have been working out structural, technical and sales problems in recent months; the first set the public will see will be installed at New York's Roxy Theater. An instantaneous system which has been built for color reception, it makes use of its own carbon arc light, thus allowing for a throw and an image similar to that of any standard movie projector. Asking price is $30,000.

Among the smaller sets, priced at under $5,000, are the Trad, the Theater-View Television, and the Ultrasonic Theater-Vision, all instantaneous. Trad, manufactured by the Trad Television Corp., provides a 15-by-20 foot picture from 65 feet in front of the screen, but can also be used as a rear projector 30 feet behind the screen. Theater-View, product of Telecoin Corp., provides a 14-by-11 picture from 25 feet in front of the screen, and may also be used as a rear-screen system. Ultrasonic, developed by Skiatron, is a rear-screen operation, providing a 15-by-10 picture by arc lamp projection.

In addition, a low cost theater television projector, utilizing both front and rear screen projection, was demonstrated on Aug. 8. Manufacturers: TV Exhibitors Corp.

In general, there are delays in delivery on all systems, ranging from 90 days to a year.

SERVING MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY SINCE 1925

COLOR DEVELOPMENTS

By LOUIS PELEGRINE
THE FILM DAILY Staff

THE COLOR CONSCIOUSNESS of the makers of motion picture entertainment became more pronounced than ever last year as they cast about for means of meeting the growing competition of television and attracting more patrons to the box offices of the nation. As evidence witness the fact that production plans of the majors and leading independent producers provided for the shooting of some 113 features in color during the 1951-1952 season. That topped the 1950-1951 figures by 43.

Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus, president and general manager of Technicolor, might well have been giving expression to the feelings of the country's film producers when he asserted the salvation of the motion picture industry lay in the realm of color. He urged upon producers the all-out use of color to improve the financial status of the business, contending that "the one thing left that the industry can go to is all color."

It was apparent the need for lower color costs was a major reason precluding an all-out drive for tinting. The manufacturers of film took the cue and stepped up their color research, perfecting means of making color films that chopped costs heavily.

The emergence of the negative-positive process of making color films was the biggest news of the year. It marked another step toward the elimination of special equipment and special handling in the production of pictures in color. The process reduced costs by permitting the use of standard black-and-white equipment both for shooting and processing. It enabled studios to process their own film.

Ansco and Eastman Kodak were two of the film manufacturers making use of the negative-positive process possible. The process is one involving four steps, which include negative camera film, negative duplicating film, color compensating traveling matte film, plus an intermediate duplicating step for adding such effects as fades, dissolves, wipes and montages inexpensively. Negative film lends itself readily to low-cost printing of positives for release to theaters.

Eastman Kodak brought out two new films for use in connection with its color negative and color print films already on the market. One was Eastman Panchromatic Separation Film to be used for making color separation positives from Eastman color negative picture originals. The other was Eastman Color Internegative Film for making color duplicate negatives by printing the three separation positives in register on Color Internegative Film. The two films permit the introduction of optical effects in the laboratory and to furnish a color duplicate negative for protection purposes. Improvement was made during the year by EK in color and keeping quality of color negative and color print films.

The first feature film to be made by the Ansco negative-positive process was M-G-M's "The Wild North." The studio planned to make other films by the Ansco process. "Royal Journey," a camera record of the Canadian tour of the then Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip of Great Britain, constituted the first feature produced by Eastman Kodak's negative-positive process.

A program to help meet the increasing demand for color was announced in 1951 by Technicolor. It called for a heavy increase in print capacity, price decreases, development of new processing facilities to produce color movies at maximum efficiency and minimum cost, and a willingness to make the Technicolor process available to any laboratory under proper license agreement, to embrace any other color system once it reached a point where it was found fit for commercial use and to consider an arrangement with any customer under which the firm would supply the capital necessary substantially to increase the size of laboratories in order to provide a part of the increased capacity necessary to produce all films in color. The program was expected to allow for a 600,000,000-foot annual output.

New output records in number of features processed and positive footage shipped were hung up by Technicolor in 1951, with data pointing to even a better showing on both counts this year. Last year 76 features were made in Technicolor as against 70 in 1950. Output of 35mm prints totalled 392,736,397 feet, an increase of 80,338,088 over 1950. Eighty-nine Technicolor features were either in production, in preparation or under contract for production in 1952.

The demand for Cinecolor and Supercinecolor exceeded plant capacity last year, with growing emphasis on the latter. The company reached two and a half times the highest production mark ever attained. The year saw production of the first feature in Supercinecolor—"The Sword of Monte Cristo." Additional funds were spent by the firm during the year for further conversion and addition of three-color facilities. It was expected that upon completion of the program approximately 75 per cent of Cinecolor's capacity would be in three-color, with the remainder in two-color. Production of Supercinecolor prints was started by Cinecolor's British laboratory during the year.

Warner Bros. devoted its technical resources to the perfection of WarnerColor, which made its public debut with the feature "The Lion and the Horse." WarnerColor was worked out in collaboration with Eastman Kodak, on whose new negative-positive process it is based. The process will be used in the production of many films on the WB schedule.

Republic's new three-color Trucolor, also a negative-positive process, met its test in a feature for the first time. The picture was "Honeychile."

Du Pont introduced its new color positive film, which offered insensitivity to a yellow "safe" light. This advantage no longer made it necessary for technicians in laboratories to work in the dark. "Honeychile" was the first feature to be printed on this film.

Edward J. and Harry Lee Danziger acquired an exclusive license for the U.S. and Canada to an inexpensive and rapid three-color process invented in Spain. The process, which bears no name, utilizes a special two-negative camera, but the images are combined on a single print for projection with ordinary theater equipment. The camera, via a beam-splitting prism, photographs images on two panchromatic black-and-white negatives running side by side. Development results in grey-scale negatives, which can be printed to produce a "better-than-ordinary" black-and-white print, or the negatives can be processed in the laboratory to produce a three-color print.

Another process to draw attention was Gevacolor, which was shown in London. The system, of Continental origin, is a single-negative process requiring no special camera. An original negative has to be cut, and all prints have to be taken from it. It is held possible to print from any monopack negative on to Gevacolor positive.

Paramount Pictures was revealed during the year to have an interest in what was described as "a revolutionary process which will provide inexpensive and efficient color film." A University of Toronto professor was understood to be working on the process.

The two antitrust actions filed in Federal Court in 1948 by the Keller-Dorian Colorfilm Corp. against Eastman Kodak, Technicolor and Technicolor Motion Picture Corp. were settled in 1951. The settlement involved the termination of the previous license agreements of 1927 and 1930 between Keller-Dorian and EK and the granting of new licenses for a 15-year period on the Keller-Dorian, Kislyn and EK patents, all relating to the lenticulated color film process.

The settlement resulted in the chartering of a new American corporation, Lenticolor, Ltd., which gave a license to EK on the Keller-Dorian and Kislyn patents under which EK agreed to make lenticulated film available to the film industry. The settlement made it possible for other manufacturers of motion picture film to obtain from Lenticolor licenses under the Keller-Dorian, Kislyn and EK patents. Lenticulated three-color process film can be employed with standard studio camera equipment, processed by regular studio and commercial laboratories and screened within 24 hours after shooting.

FOREIGN FILMS IN THE U. S.

By J. C. PRIORE
Staff Writer, THE FILM DAILY

IN THE MATTER and business of film imports into the U. S. in recent months two points of view were set forth. From both sources there was the able projection of thought that derives from familiarity and expertise. On the one hand it was set forth that imports from such important past sources of product as France and Italy were on the decline. Perhaps without hesitating, and inspecting closely, this was the broad impression. Another line of thought by this same authority, without revealing a fresh angle, stated that British pictures were, in the main, the largest import group, numerically. This is an obvious deduction.

But French and Italian product continues to play on an ever expanding number of American screens. Many pictures are of a vintage variety. There are a number of new and notable items, also, it must be pointed out. A familiarity with the release and distribution of foreign films will readily identify new titles that receive noteworthy playing time, and impressive audience response, in localities other than immediate.

Upcoming the big deal that looms large on the horizon is the program of the recently set up Italian Films Export. Representing Italian producers in this country, the organization has launched operations which aim for considerable expansion of the exhibition of Italian films, and, perhaps French offerings. The new approach to secure a more widespread audience, first utilized a few years ago in the dubbed version of "Fabiola," will be to promote new versions of Italian product in English.

IFE's program calls for certain financial assistance and technical aid, generation of interest on the part of American audiences for the new variety of Italian film. This year, foreign production interests look forward to a strong penetration of the U.S. market.

As reported by Dr. Renato Gualino, head of the International Federation of Motion Picture Producers Associations (Italy), and IFE, the practice of dubbing foreign language films into English, in Great Britain, has shown encouraging results.

Dr. Gualino revealed that in recent years the number of bookings for a subtitled film in England had been limited to approximately 100 theaters. With a top picture, in previous times, the best a producer could expect from the British market was the equivalent of $28,000, with average takes about $2,800 to $8,400.

First entry into the British market which was dubbed was "Bitter Rice." In the past year and a half the film has played 1,200 bookings. This is put at about 40 per cent of the potential, outside of circuit bookings. From this playing time the producer's end was $84,000. It has paid off in England, it would seem, and continued adherence to this pattern of handling stands to pay off elsewhere.

Production in Italy this year will reach its highest postwar peak. The program forthcoming is varied and embraces such contributions as Vittorio De Sica's "Umberto D," Roberto Rossellini's "Europa 1951," "First Communion," with Aldo Fabrizi; "Anna," with Silvana Mangano; "Rome, 11 O'Clock," "Three Forbidden Stories," "Messalina," "Ulysses" and the first Italian color production, "The Golden Coach," with Anna Magnani, to be filmed by Jean Renoir.

First arrivals on the dubbed and English version scene will be the seventh, Italian produced "Les Miserables," which has been duly noted for its effort. Another number which stands to make a strong impress is the Paul Gallico story, produced by Anthony Havelock-Allan, and which will be released here by Souvaine as "Never Take No For An Answer." This pair will very likely prove to be pioneers in the IFE project.

Most noteworthy French film of the year was "La Ronde," the cinematic translation of a work by Arthur Schnitzler. Aimed for the highly sophisticated audience and performed by a top collection of European artists, the offering, released here by Commercial Pictures, was the Gallic event of the year. It enjoyed lengthy tenancy in such widespread localities as Washington and Los Angeles. In New York and a handful of other states the censors took issue.

Current and forthcoming from France, and worthy of note, will be "Edouard et Caroline," "Marie Du Port," "Passion for Life," "Under the Skies of Paris."

The current year will be one to watch. Foreign films stand to come into their own. It is apparent every effort will be made to achieve that end.

As one noted Hollywood voice has stated: "There's plenty of room for the success of any good picture in any country."
